Blackmail Charges Made

Canadian Press
London, Ont., Sept. 12.—Police to-day struck the first blow in their fight against an alleged blackmail ring they say has cost Londoners thousands of dollars during the last few years, arrested three persons, two of them women, and held them without bail.
Those under arrest, held on charges of theft of money by threat are: Mrs. Mae Turnbull, thirty-five, of Toronto, twenty-nine, her son, and Mrs. Frank Taylor, twenty-five. Officers said they believed the three under arrest had made $10,000 through their threats.
Chief Constable Harry Downs swore out warrants for the arrest of the three, acting on information obtained from an unnamed person described only as "Mr. A." The trio will appear in court to-morrow, and will be held in camera.

SHELL SEVENTY YEARS OLD FOUND

Associated Press
Abouat, B.C., Sept. 12.—An unexploded shell believed to have been fired by a British man-of-war seventy years ago at Indians of the Abouat tribe, who had murdered the captain and crew of a small trading vessel and then sunk the ship, has been found at the head of Herbert Arm, 1,500 feet above sea level.
The shell was found by William Dunlop, a member of a prospecting party which included Leonard Nelson, B. W. McDougall, M. E. and Russell R. Walker.
The shell weighed a few ounces less than forty pounds and measured four inches in diameter and slightly more than ten inches in length.

B.C. Will Own Big New Fraser Bridge Says the Premier

Statement Clears Up Any Misunderstanding Among Public; Tolls Will Be Low

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 12.—The British Columbia government will build, own and finance the new bridge across the Fraser River at New Westminster, and the government will collect the tolls, Premier Pattullo stated to-day when informed misunderstandings had arisen from the original announcement the bridge would be built.
Because the Fraser River Bridge Company has had a charter granted by the Legislature ever since 1927, Parfitt, well-known contractor, passed away yesterday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Jubilee Hospital. Mr. Parfitt and his daughter, who were passengers in the car at the time of the accident, are also patients in the institution.

Mrs. Parfitt was born in Bath, England, sixty-eight years ago. She came out in 1889 to Vancouver, where her marriage took place to Mr. Parfitt, after which they came to this city to make their home. She had resided here ever since. The family home is at 1446 Gladstone Avenue.
Besides her husband and daughter, Hazel, Mrs. Parfitt is survived by one son, Gilbert, and another daughter, Mrs. G. Province, and four grandchildren all of Victoria.
For a number of years Mrs. Parfitt was associated with the Metropolitan Church, but in more recent years transferred her allegiance to the City Temple, in which she was an active worker. A woman of splendid qualities, she made a host of friends whose sympathy will be tendered to the family in its sad loss.
Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

NEW RULES FOR SHIP BUILDING

U.S. President Will Ask Congress to Legislate for All-steel Passenger Vessels

Associated Press
Hyde Park, N.Y., Sept. 12.—Aroused by the Morro Castle disaster, President Roosevelt wants the United States Congress to enact legislation eliminating wood in passenger ships and requiring fireproof construction.
The President feels all-steel passenger ships can be constructed.
Also, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed at his regular press conference to-day he expects the Department of Justice to take whatever action may be required as a result of the inquiry into the Morro Castle fire, which cost more than 100 lives.
Associated Press
New York, Sept. 12.—George W. Rogers, chief radio operator of the burned Morro Castle, told the federal board of inquiry here to-day that it was fully thirty minutes after he was awakened because of the fire aboard the ship before he received an order to send out an SOS.

Fred Perry Retains U.S. Tennis Crown

British Ace Defeats Wilmer Allison, Texas, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 1-6, 8-6 for Second Straight Victory; Perry Laughs at Crowd During Great Match

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 12.—Fred Perry, England, won the United States men's singles tennis championship here to-day, defeating Wilmer Allison, Texas, in a keenly fought five-set match, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 1-6, 8-6. After winning the first two sets Perry slackened off to allow the American to square the match. The fifth and final set saw Perry turn on the power again but he was forced into extra games before conquering the Texan.
Perry broke through Allison's service on the first game and quickly ran his lead to 3-1. The Englishman's sharp backhand fitted down the side line for easy placements.
Perry won the first set 6-4.
Perry twice broke Allison's service in the first and third games of the second set and held his own delivery to run up a lead of 4-0 before the American settled down and won his own delivery at love. Allison again was overruling the back line under the Englishman's constant pressure.
Allison won the third set, 6-3, and trailed two sets to one.
Tearing all over the court, his game suddenly fitted together all at once, Allison settled off four straight games, twice breaking the Englishman's service in the fourth game. The crowd cheered every error of Perry's and he laughed at them, again putting his fingers in his ears to drown out the noise.
Perry's listless tennis grew as Allison ran his streak to five straight games to win the set, 6-1, and square the match.
Perry played listless tennis, apparently refusing to get excited about the situation, and with Allison playing dogged tennis the American ran up a lead of 3-1 in the fourth set with the aid of a break through the Englishman's service in the fourth game. The crowd cheered every error of Perry's and he laughed at them, again putting his fingers in his ears to drown out the noise.

Idle Prisoners Ready to Work

Of 120 at Royal City Who Struck, Many Have Already Weakened

New Westminster, B.C., Sept. 12.—"An increasing number of the strikers are declaring their willingness to return to work," Col. H. W. Cooper, warden of the federal penitentiary here, said to-day in commenting on the strike of 120 convicts who have been locked in their cells for refusal to work.
The strike started on September 1 when a gang of seven convicts laid down their tools in the various shops and refused to work. They were locked in their cells.

Recent Strike Is Recalled at Inquiry

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 12.—George W. Rogers, chief radio operator of the burned Morro Castle, told the federal board of inquiry here to-day that it was fully thirty minutes after he was awakened because of the fire aboard the ship before he received an order to send out an SOS.
Rogers further testified that some time ago his first assistant, George Alagna, and another operator "tried to instigate discontent on the ship."
Rogers said he was awakened at 2:55 a.m., E.S.T., last Saturday, after the fire broke out. Smoke began to pour into the radio room shortly, he said.
"At 3:15 Mr. George Alagna (first assistant operator) returned to the radio and told me:
"You'd better get out of here if you don't want to die like a rat."
STAND BY MESSAGE
"We sent out a stand by message so that when I did get orders to send out an SOS we would have a clear channel."
"At about 3:25 or 3:30—I had a wet towel on my face. I could hardly breathe. Mr. Alagna came back to the radio room and said, 'OK, chief, send out an SOS.'"
"I immediately sent out the SOS, giving our position twenty miles south of Scotland Light."
Dickerson N. Hoover, conducting the inquiry for the Department of Commerce, told Rogers he wanted to learn whether discipline was maintained aboard the liner.

Municipalities Not Forced To Refund

Government Has Offered Assistance if Any Wish to Do So, and There Is No Compulsion, Says Minister; Bondholders in Bankrupt Municipalities Can Propose Solution

No attempt is being made by the provincial government to force any self-governed B.C. municipality to repudiate its interest, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipal Affairs, pointed out this morning in connection with the controversy arising out of the refunding schemes announced for North Vancouver and Burnaby.
The government has merely offered the municipalities assistance if any of them wish to go into refinancing plans. There is no compulsion about it and the decision as to whether any of them intend to do so rests entirely with the municipal authorities. In the final analysis it would be done by legislation.
In the case of North Vancouver city and district and Burnaby, these are under government commission-erships and as such, receive advice from the government. The schemes of refunding at 1 per cent were carefully based upon the ability of these areas to pay the charges, Mr. Gray explained.

Municipalities Not Forced to Refund

"The bondholders of these municipalities are quite at liberty to make any other suggestion they desire. They can go through the books and find out just what can be paid. As a matter of fact, these districts will have to scratch very hard to pay even the 1 per cent."

The view taken by the government is that the principal sums invested by the bondholders will be protected under the refunding. On the present quotation of the bonds, a large proportion of this investment has gone and would be restored by the refunding.

Because 1 per cent is suggested as the interest rate in North Vancouver and Burnaby is no reason why others would refund at the same rate. Prince Rupert, for instance, already has a scheme to exchange its bonds down to 4 per cent. Many municipalities have small debts they would not need to refund.

Ontario has also gone into the municipal refunding field. Supervisors of bankrupt municipalities in that province have been working on exactly the same principle, working things out with the bondholders. There are just two alternatives—default, or extension of the debt at lower interest rates.

The same situation has also developed in the United States where it is being tackled on a large scale. The condition is by no means unique to this province.

STATES VOTE IN PRIMARIES

Michigan—Arthur J. Lacy leading Governor Clegg's nomination. Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Frank D. Fitzgerald is the Republican choice.

Vermont—Senator Austin. New Deal foe, renounced by Republicans. Democrats pick Fred C. Martin.

New Hampshire—Congressmen Rogers, Hancock and Tobey, Republican, renominated.

Washington—Close race for Democratic Senatorial nomination.

LOCAL ISSUES

The political status quo of the eight states remained virtually unchanged. Because of local issues in most cases the New Deal was not on trial.

In Vermont, for example, the Republican senator Warren R. Austin was renominated by a three-to-one vote over Harry E. Ames. Senator Austin has been a consistent critic of the New Deal. The New Deal will become a clear-cut issue in November, however, for Sen. Ames will be opposed by a "Roosevelt man," Fred C. Martin.

HUEY LONG WINS

The election that was packed with most drama—that in New Orleans—had no national connections. It was the war between U.S. Senator Huey P. Long and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, and Long won. Troops were called out during the campaign.

The Long-endorsed candidates for the Democratic nomination for Congress (tantamount to election in Louisiana), are J. O. Fernandez in the first district and Paul Maloney in the second.

The feminist note added zest to the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor of Colorado. Miss Josephine Roche, who owns coal mines and is a well-known social worker, was behind Governor Edwin C. Johnson for the nomination. Nate C. Warren is the Republican candidate.

IN WASHINGTON

It may require complete returns in the state of Washington to determine who won the Democratic nomination for United States Senator there. John C. Stevenson and Lewis B. Swannellbach were running close, with Charles

TEXTILE MEN ROUT TROOPS

Two Rhode Island Strikers Are Near Death; Crowd, Angered, Then Charges

Associated Press
Saylesville, R.I., Sept. 12.—Two men were shot and believed critically wounded by Rhode Island national guardsmen on strike duty at the Sayles Finishing Company here as a crowd of nearly 2,000 pickets and strike sympathizers rushed the state troops.

It was the first time the state militia has fired on a crowd in New England during the current strike. TROOPS ROUTED Immediately following the shooting of the two civilians, one of whom is believed to be near death, a crowd of 5,000 rushed the troops guarding the property lines outside of the company's plant and routed them. SOLDIERS SENT Chester, S.C., Sept. 12.—Five companies of National Guardsmen were rushed to the Eureka mill at the Springs here this afternoon after a strike flying squadron of several hundred persons was reported en route here from Gastonia, N.C.

William Blackwood of Pawtucket was shot in the head and Charles Gorney, eighteen, Central Falls, in the abdomen. Notre Dame Hospital reported their condition critical.
The shooting occurred when the crowd made a rush for fifteen national guardsmen in the Moshassuck cemetery, for three days the scene of violent clashes between police or troops guarding the plant and strike sympathizers.
Warning shots were fired and then, as the crowd continued to advance, the guardsmen fired into the oncoming throng.

LEGISLATION TOLD LABOR

Canadian Congress Hears Provincial Governments Becoming More Active

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 12.—Persistent and unrelenting work of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and its provincial subsidiaries was hailed today as the main contributing feature toward awakening of the public conscience in Canada.

Presenting the report of the committee on legislative activities, Robert Hewitt, Winnipeg, considered it "indeed refreshing to see the policy of inaction which has dominated our provincial governments throughout the past few years being replaced by action that at least purports to alleviate present conditions."

The report noted an amendment to the Criminal Code affecting picketing in line with the programme of the Congress.
The report also desired to bring to the notice of delegates "the tendency of Parliament towards legislative measures purporting to benefit the producers of this country."

The report contended the 1924 session of Parliament gave only slight consideration to labor's programme. Particularly it referred to the Canada Shipping Act, which it understood had been replaced by an entirely new act that had not been proclaimed.

THE U.S. RECOVERY

Deliberate efforts of United States employers to evade the labor provisions of the National Recovery Act, and to prevent workers having an organization that would enable them to maintain their rights, produced the epidemic of strikes that swept the United States during the summer, Joseph F. McCurdy told the Congress.
Fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor, Mr. McCurdy outlined labor conditions in his country.

When business men "saw the opportunity for profits returning and their industries coming out of the red, their real attitude came to the surface," he said.

Employers "revived old slogans, began to protest against government interference in business," refused co-operation in the programme of shortening hours.
Refusal to shorten hours and raise wages a further 10 per cent, as the President requested in the spring, checked progress toward recovery, Mr. McCurdy said, and in June of this year there were more unemployed than in the previous October.

Idle Prisoners Ready to Work

UNREST OBSERVED
A statement issued yesterday by Warden Cooper said:
"During the following week there was evidence of considerable unrest and, on Sunday, September 9, the warden for the principal agitators (those men who appeared to be the ringleaders)."

"When questioned, these men stated they had no complaints to make regarding the treatment or food given them at the prison, but they did practically demand certain concessions."

WANTED WAGES

"They asked for wages for their work, and also asked permission to have a standing committee, with a delegate from each department, to hold weekly meetings and discuss matters with the authorities."

"These demands were refused. Last Monday, eighty-seven more prisoners refused to work. These were rounded up and placed in cells."

MUCH SHOOTING

"During the day there was considerable agitation and unrest, caused by increased 'rumormongering.' The locked-up convicts joined in concerted shouts of 'wages' wages.' Threats and remarks were directed at the 228 convicts who continued to work."

Yesterday twenty-six more prisoners went on strike.

STRIKE RECALLED

"Some time ago there was a strike among the radio operators," Rogers said, "Alagna and another operator tried to instigate discontent on the ship by seeking signatures to a protest that the food on the ship was bad."

He said his second assistant operator awakened him at 2:55 a.m., E.S.T., and informed him there was a fire aboard. He said he dressed immediately and sent his first assistant, Alagna, to the bridge as a "messenger of inquiry here to-day that shortly before the fire, conferred with him concerning Alagna and asked: 'What's the matter with Alagna? Is he crazy?'"

The witness testified Captain Willmott told him he and others of Alagna's superior officers often received sarcastic remarks from the chief operator "that he refused to obey orders, that he was an agitator."

TELLS OF FLAMES

New York, Sept. 12.—John Dinne, a quartermaster on the ill-fated liner Morro Castle, told the federal board of inquiry here to-day that shortly before 3 a.m. last Saturday he opened a lobby door on the ship, flames leaped out, but that he relayed nothing to the master.

"Was those directed to this particular spot?" Dickerson N. Hoover, head of the inquiry board, asked.

"No," replied Dinne.
Dinne and George W. Rogers, the chief wireless operator, testified George Alagna, first assistant wireless operator, was a cause of friction aboard the line.

Rogers told the board that Captain Robert R. Willmott, who died the night before the fire, had talked with him about Alagna and that the captain told him "I don't trust that man."

Associated Press

New York, Sept. 12.—The plight of the Morro Castle clung closer to her crew to-day, with the first assistant radio officer held incommunicado and all his mates under subpoena.

George Ignatius Alagna, twenty-eight-year-old assistant radio operator, was locked up as a material witness in the investigation resumed to-day before the federal grand jury.

Civil warrants were served on the others of the crew to prevent their sailing away from the investigation to-day on the Ward liner Siboney, for which United States Attorney Martin Conboy said some were signed.

Revision of U.S. Codes Foreseen

But General Course Is Right, I. Harriman Tells Canadian Chamber of Commerce

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—Spurred by exigencies of depression, regulation of business has been carried to great a degree and revision of codes in the United States is imperative, declared Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in a luncheon address here to-day.

Heading the United States delegation to the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Harriman found close links between business of the two countries and noted advances toward prosperity made since the war on depression was initiated.

"I do not share the view that you in Canada or we in the United States are rushing headlong into new and untried fields of economy and political structure or that we must retreat to grips with the problems of a changing order of business which is largely based on the profit motive."

The United States and the Dominion will set a salutary example of common sense for other nations of the world."

COST OF RECOVERY

In the United States, business was better than the psychology of business, Mr. Harriman said. There was thankfulness for the obviously better condition, but grave fear existed that the cost of recovery measures would prove a greater burden than the nation could bear. He did not share these fears, but he recognized the problems lying ahead.

Those who are close to President Roosevelt know he is attempting to correct the faults of the present economic system and does not desire to change it for another and more prove a greater burden than the nation could bear. He did not share these fears, but he recognized the problems lying ahead.

Mr. Harriman reviewed problems in relief administration, agriculture and commerce in general. Providing more work was the answer to the unemployment problem, and for business confidence must be restored to business. Government expenditures, too, had to be lowered.

Dealing with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in the United States, in which he saw a parallel in Canada, Mr. Harriman said the farm problem had arisen from unmanageable and unusable surpluses. The A.A. was designed to eliminate these surpluses and the drought, although affecting 6,000,000 persons, had aided greatly towards achieving this objective. He urged removal of marginal land from cultivation and creation of a balanced economic life which would permit purchase of certain kinds of food which the people now could not afford.

Mark Stuart, New York, defeated Maurice J. McCarthy Jr., Cleveland, 6 and 3.

Russell Martin, Chicago, defeated Jack Joerner, Palo Alto, Calif., 4 and 2.

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 12.—Playing beautiful golf at the critical stages, C. R. "Sandy" Somerville, London, Ont., to-day defeated Sidney W. Noyes Jr., New York, in the third round of the United States amateur golf championship.

George Dunlap, New York, was chosen the champion by William Turnesa, youngest of the noted Elsford, N.Y., golfing family. Turnesa decisively outplayed the Londoner, defeating him 3 and 2, in the third round.

Somerville, trying to regain the title he won in 1927, lost the last year, played steady golf throughout and reached the turn 2 up. But a streak of sub-par shooting by Noyes gave the Londoner a narrow victory in the seventh round. They halved the seventeenth and finished with a seven-hole margin.

Somerville's club associate, Jack Nash, London, Ont., continued his superb shotmaking by eliminating Charles Kocis, highly considered New Yorker, 1 up. Jack Cameron, flashy Montrealer, went down to defeat before Eddie Driggs, New York, 2 and 1.

The only representative of Great Britain, T. A. (Tony) Torrance, signalled his status as a real title threat by trouncing Johnny Lehman, Chicago, former United States western champion, 4 and 3.

The veteran Scottish Walker Cup player lost par golf most of the way. Scotty Campbell, Seattle, Canadian amateur champion, pulled out his match with Wilson F. Marks, Pittsburg, on the last green. After setting his early margin wiped out entirely by Marks, who won the fifteenth and sixteenth, the latter with a birdie. Scotty won the seventeenth and clinched the match on the final hole.

The major upset of the early matches clinched James E. Francis, twenty-three-year-old San Francisco, crushed Jack Westland, Chicago, Walker Cup veteran and 1931 runner-up for the title, by the tremendous margin of 7 and 6.

Dunlap passed out of the championship picture in his second match after showing only a few flashes of the form that carried him spectacularly to the top last year. He was the latest of the victims of glant-bitting youth as he joined Francis Outmet, Johnny Goodman, Max Marston and Johnny Fischer, among other favorites, on the sidelines.

Turnesa cut Dunlap down with close to perfect golf. The sharp-shooting youngster was out in 35, even par, and 4 up.

Chick Evans won an old-timer's duel from Chandler Egan, fifty-year-old Californian, 2 and 1. Both formerly held the title. Evans had in 1920 and Egan away back in 1904-05.

THIRD ROUND

James E. Francis Jr., San Francisco, defeated Jack Westland, Chicago, 7 and 6.

Fred Haas Jr., New Orleans, defeated Christopher Carr, Buffalo, 4 and 2.

Bobby Jacobson, Deal, N.J., defeated John E. Lehman, Chicago, 4 and 3.

Albert (Scotty) Campbell, Seattle, defeated Wilson F. Marks, Pittsburg, one up.

Jack Hoerner, Palo Alto, Cal., defeated Eddie Hogan, Portland, Ore., 4 and 3.

Eddie Driggs, New York, defeated

"It took the Labor Party fifty years to grow in influence from one seat to control of the government. On the other hand if Sir Oswald gets power by force, then England will have to be in a very bad way indeed. And England is not in a bad way. She is doing well."

Wide Powers For Bank Head

All Resolutions of Bank of Canada Directors Must Be Approved by Governor

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Extraordinary power will rest on the youthful shoulders of Graham Ford Towers, newly appointed governor of the Bank of Canada, under the by-laws of the new institution, just made public.
While there will be a board of seven directors, elected by the shareholders, as well as the governor and deputy governor, all resolutions will be subject to veto by the governor and without his approval will have no authority.

In accordance with the statute, the by-laws of the new bank were prepared under the direction of Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes, adopted by order-in-council and published yesterday in a special edition of The Canada Gazette.

The next steps will be public offerings of the shares, publication of their allotment and creation of the bank as a body corporate, calling of general meeting of shareholders and election of the first permanent board of directors.

Seven provisional directors were appointed under the Bank of Canada Act, six being members of the staff of the Department of Finance, and one from the Department of External Affairs. These officials will act without pay until a permanent board is appointed.

THE DIRECTORS
The directors, to be chosen according to occupations, will be divided into three groups—two representatives of primary producers, two representing commerce or manufacturing and three representatives of other activities.

The governor and deputy governor of the bank (Mr. Towers and an official yet to be selected, presumably a central bank expert from some other part of the Empire), will hold office during good behavior and will be outside the control of the government as well as the board of directors. The governor will hold office for the supreme head and, while he may be refused approval of his actions not covered by the statute and by-laws, no action may be forced on him by the board. He will hold office for a period of seven years certain and be eligible for reappointment.

Functions of the directors will be mainly advisory and the diversified selection is designed to bring to the bank the viewpoints of all classes.
Meetings will be held at least four times a year, and the directors will receive fees and traveling expenses.

In a short time the public will be given an opportunity to buy shares of the new bank at $50. per value, with fifty shares as the maximum any person may own. They will be sold at not less than par and will bear dividend possibilities up to a maximum of 4 per cent. Any shares unsubscribed will be taken over by the Minister of Finance at par. Each director will be required to own ten shares of stock. Each subscriber will be required to sign a statutory declaration that he is a British subject ordinarily resident in Canada, that he is not a director, officer, clerk or employee of any chartered bank and that his application is not made on behalf of any chartered bank or bank employee. He will also give his occupation, as each shareholder will be a potential director.

Similar statutory declarations will be required from corporations seeking shares. Any transfer of shares from one individual or corporation to another will require the same declaration from the new owner and all transfers will be recorded on the books of the bank only when these provisions have been observed.

Further provisions to guard against possibility of control by chartered banks require that a director must, if when appointed he has shares in a chartered bank, sell them within three months after his appointment to hold office, and during the term of his directorate shall not have an interest directly or indirectly as a shareholder in a chartered bank.

Directors must be British subjects ordinarily resident in Canada, and not be employed in any capacity for which remuneration is paid out of public money.

SOLDIERS—THEN AND NOW

Written specially for The Victoria Daily Times

By DR. THEODORE GOODRIDGE ROBERTS

NO. 3

Scores of super-deeds of valor must have passed unobserved in the dreadful confusion of battle. Scores of shining heroes were obliterated in their very acts of super-heroism. So it is safe to say that every V.C. that was awarded was well and truly won and that more were won than were awarded.

FIRST IN THAT WAR

The first Canadian to win the Victoria Cross in the Great War was Lance-Corporal Fisher of the 13th Battalion. But Fisher did not live to have it pinned on his breast. His great deed and his great death fell on the same day, April 23, 1915, the second day of the Second Battle of Ypres, which was Canada's first battle of Ypres. The immediate cause of Fred Fisher's heroic deed was the heroism of one of our batteries of field artillery. The infantry and the gunners not only fought together that day, but fought shoulder to shoulder on the same ground. Major W. B. N. King did not retire his eighteen-pounders according to the book of rules, he waited for the enemy, advancing in massed formation, to get within 200 yards of him, so that he might give them a proper taste of C.F.A. stuff at point-blank range. While he did. But he and his gunners and guns were left in a tight, hot spot. Our Third Infantry Brigade came to King's assistance. It was all in a day's work.

Corporal Fisher of the 13th Battalion, with a machine gun crew of four, was in the front of the task of covering the battery's retirement.
His four companions were shot down, but he was instantly replaced by four men of the 14th (Royal Montreal) Battalion, and the machine gun continued its deadly spraying of the massed enemy. Its second crew fell, one by one, and again was replaced by volunteers who did not wait to be asked; and still the corporal remained alive, unhurt, finger on trigger. The battery was saved—but that, evidently, was not enough for Fred Fisher. He moved to a yet more advanced position, losing his third crew in the moving, set-up tripod and gun again, single-handed, and resumed fire. He was still firing when he was killed. He was the shining hero of that occasion—but when the crews of that machine gun are considered, one realizes that many heroes contributed to that great deed. His battalion, his brigade, the whole division, shared in the glory of it.

NOT FIRE-EATERS

Our heroes of that war had not,
and have not, the appearance or manners of fire-eaters. Good soldiers and some of them still are, the mildest mannered of men. Military bluster and swagger went out of style long ago. The most terrifying military men to their juniors, I ever saw were certain old militia officers in peaceful days and scenes before the war. Terrible colonels and bellowing majors went out of style in the face of a terrible, bellowing enemy. Canadians of all ranks learned quickly that the best soldiers made the least noise. Good manners became the spirit of the splendid discipline of the Canadian Corps. Even sergeant-majors did no more blustering than was demanded of them by that peculiar and efficient rank and job of theirs. Sergeant-majors occupied the most thankless jobs in the army.

NEW TRAFFIC BY-LAW MADE

Draft of City Law Considered by Council: Taxi Soliciting Rules Relaxed

A new traffic by-law, including clauses relative to the taxicab fare question, as recommended by the special committee which studied that matter, and largely supporting Chief of Police Thomas Heatley in his efforts for more efficient methods of regulating traffic in the city, was introduced and given first and second reading by the City Council yesterday evening.

In a letter concerning the amending by-law, H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, stated that it embodied the recommendations of the committee on taxicab fares which were included in section 54 of the bill.
Another section provided for maximum baggage rates which, the solicitor urged, be returned to the committee for further investigation.
"At the suggestion of the Chief of Police and Alderman Worthington, I have incorporated in the amending by-law provisions for the regulation of traffic in the city and for the signals being authorized by the council for use in certain intersections," his letter read in part.

NO U-TURNS

In accordance with the recommendation of the chief it also set aside the Douglas and Pandora, Douglas and Johnson, Douglas and Douglas, Douglas and View, and Douglas and Fort intersections as well as the Douglas and View, Douglas and Fort, Douglas and Yates, Government and View, King and Government and Fort intersections.

The by-law, it was noted, would not be finally passed for a month or two.

RELAX SOLICITING BAN

Another section tended to relax the regulations regarding soliciting by taxi agencies, allowing drivers to make pleas in conversational tones by word of mouth from within six feet of their vehicles in those parts reserved for taxi stands. In a following section it made provision to avoid unreasonable noise which might disturb the peace.

DRAWBACK ON COAL INCREASED

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The drawback on imported bituminous coal converted into coke in coke or gas plants in Canada has been increased to 90 per cent. This is by far the highest where not less than 35 per cent by weight of the bituminous coal converted in the claimant's plant into coke, as covered by a drawback claim, was mined in Canada.

A regulation governing the change was issued yesterday by the Department of National Revenue to its collectors. It is not expected a very large percentage of bituminous coal imported will be affected.

Under the budget brought down at the last session of Parliament, a drawback of 50 per cent was provided on all imported bituminous coal converted into coke or gas plants in Canada. The present order is to give the drawback of 90 per cent on imported bituminous where as high as 35 per cent or more Canadian bituminous is used in the conversion.

Sleeping Motorist Is Heavy Loser

Associated Press
Orange, Cal., Sept. 12.—While Grant Goodrich slept in his automobile, thieves stole $28 in cash from his pockets, both bumpers from his automobile, a spare tire and a wheel, horn, radiator cap, coat, sweater, set of tools and a tie clasp.

ROBIN PIE WAS COSTLY

Princeton, Wis., Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The cost to Peter Refakes of a pie made of robins was $50 and court costs. A game warden testified he found him shooting the birds and a justice of the peace did the rest.

GERMANS OFFER TO PAY FOR YARN

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 12.—German importers of yarn, facing a complete shutdown at the source of supply, have offered to pay $250,000, owing to Lancashire cotton companies, in twelve monthly instalments. It was announced yesterday. In the offer, it was stated that delivery of yarn to Germany recommence immediately.

TARIFF LOBBY IS SQUELCHED

Logrolling and Backdoor Tactics Ended by Hull in Washington

Washington, Sept. 12.—Palmy days of the tariff lobby on Capitol Hill, when log-rolling and backdoor tactics were a perpetual scandal, are over.
The pressure is now directed at the State Department, which is empowered to change duties under the new Reciprocity Act.

The pressure does not get anywhere unless the lobbyists make out a good case. Secretary Hull and his chief subordinates in the business of tariff-making want to expand international trade.
All the old methods of personal approach, supplementing huge stacks of briefs and letters, were directed at Hull as finishing touches were placed on the recently promulgated treaty with Cuba.

The grimmest lobbying came from domestic interests, who sought a more favorable tariff on imported raw sugar, and the most vocal attacks from fruit and vegetable growers in Florida and California, who objected to a seasonal tariff on more or less competitive Cuban products. Neither effort was successful.

ONTARIO HYDRO RULE PROTESTED

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 12.—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is opposed to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission's prohibition of political activity among its employees. The congress yesterday adopted a resolution of protest against the recent memorandum of the commission.
Introducing a resolution, J. W.
Buckley of Toronto termed the Hydro memorandum "the thin edge of the wedge to bring down the hammer and destroy our political liberty."

WOULD DELAY FEED EXPORTS

Canadian Press
Melita, Man., Sept. 12.—Reeves of thirteen municipalities in southwestern Manitoba to-day petitioned the Manitoba government to withhold export licenses for shipments of feed into the United States until the needs of dried-out areas in the province are fully met.
It was estimated 32,100 tons of fodder will be required for livestock quartered in the southwest this winter. Practically no grain was threshed over wide area.

SCHOOL STRIKE COMES TO END

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—A week's extended summer vacation ended today for thirty-six striking pupils of the Prince Edward school in East Eldon. The children resumed their studies pending consideration of their grievance by the school board.
The strike was called by parents who objected to their transfer to another school some distance away.

ELEVEN MOTORISTS HURT

Regina, Sept. 12 (Canadian Press).— Eleven persons were injured when three automobiles collided at a junction of the Moose Jaw highway near here yesterday. A. W. Halmanson, twenty, who was driving alone, was the most seriously injured. He suffered severe head injuries and was brought to a hospital here. The others received minor cuts and bruises.

HORSE SHOW IS ENJOYED

Touch-and-out Sweepstakes for Stake of $135 Feature of First Evening

With the first event, that for six-horse teams, and the last one, the touch-and-out sweepstakes, as the features, the first horse show programme was presented at the provincial exhibition grounds yesterday evening.

There will be an entirely different programme to-night at 8 o'clock, with two other cards for Thursday and Friday evenings.

The thirty large draft horses that represented the five teams in the six-horse team class provided a fine spectacle as they were manoeuvred by their skillful drivers in the limited space of the sawdust ring. Crossing and criss-crossing, they thrilled the spectators with a feeling of the imminence of collision, but nothing happened to break the thread of their weaving, and they were greeted with loud applause as they left the ring.

In the touch-and-out sweepstakes, Mrs. D. B. Carley and Mr. Bell, of the Bell and Munro stables, were called back by the judges for further jumping. Mrs. Carley on Brierley Jury and her male rival finally being declared tied for first place. Mrs.
Carley on Pop Over was third and the same rider on Beggar Boy fourth. Ian Ross also cleared the highest jump on both his mounts. The stake for the first three riders was $135. The jumps included hurdle and bridle, two-bar hurdle and three-bar hurdle,
the first two to be negotiated twice.

OTHER WINNERS

Other winners in the five other events on the programme were Mrs.
T. K. Mathews, R. Stewart, Mrs. Bell,
Mrs. Carley and Ian Ross and W. Barpeting to-night are Commander C. H.

THISTLE HAY CUT

Holingson, Kas., Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The drought has placed a premium on the Russian thistle in this district. Ordinarily considered a pest, the thistle is being cut for winter stock feed. Joe Koseny, cattleman, has purchased ten carloads of the thistle hay at $10 a ton.

MUNICIPAL FINANCE

AN OTTAWA DISPATCH DESCRIBES the recent announcement of provincial government policy in connection with municipal financing as being in line with the course which is being followed by many municipalities in Ontario at present under the direction of supervisors. It is, in fact, in line with the general tendency of not only municipalities but of governments in regard to interest charges. Ottawa hopes to refund some $200,000,000 of its debt at three per cent, while Ontario already has financed its obligations at substantially reduced rates.

There is nothing mandatory in the announcement made by Hon. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipalities, except in its relation to the three municipalities which are now under commissions, and which must compromise with their creditors on interest rates until they are able to meet their full liabilities. The municipalities in general, however, are invited to submit to the government's plans by which they might secure a reduction of their interest charges, and if their proposals are fair to all concerned, legislation will be adopted putting them into effect. In no circumstances will it be possible for any municipality to take advantage of the situation to pare its liabilities below what it can reasonably pay. It is significant that Prince Rupert, one of the municipalities under a commissioner, is receiving from bondholders a favorable response to its proposal to reduce interest charges to four per cent, and refund by the issue of twenty-year bonds.

For the municipalities to continue meeting their debt charges on the basis of one hundred per cent, with declining revenues, either they or the provincial government must increase taxation, since there is no other source from which the necessary funds can be drawn. Obviously, the municipalities can not impose any further charges on real property, their chief source of revenue. The government feels it should not attempt to levy more taxation, for this would merely reduce the number of taxpayers. The only other thinkable alternative, therefore, must be an effort to effect a reduction of interest charges, since none of them can economize sufficiently in other ways to balance its liabilities.

Just what the response of the municipalities will be to Mr. Gray's invitation remains to be seen. Vancouver, through its mayor, declines to have anything to do with the idea, but it will be along in good time as usual with a list of its financial requirements which it will expect the provincial government to meet by further gouging the taxpayers. The grim fact remains for all to see that there is not a government in Canada, whether federal, provincial or municipal, which does not realize that it must effect a reduction of its debt charges and which is not actually doing this or planning to do it. If this policy should make it impossible for most of them to issue new loans, so much the better. The country from end to end has been borrowing itself towards insolvency and about the best thing which could happen to it would be a closed loan market.

HEARST ON SINCLAIR

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST HAS made it quite clear that he does not think much of Upton Sinclair who was nominated the other day as a candidate for the governorship of California. The publisher gave an interview the other day to a representative of The New York Times at the well-known German spa of Bad Nauheim in which he called Sinclair "an unbalanced reformer whose remedies, like his writings, are pure fiction." However, he remarked, "if Americans want to play with financial experiments, let them do it, it's their own funeral."

Mr. Hearst has made a very great deal of money out of his large newspaper interests. He has made a very great deal of verbal noise himself from time to time by his long, heavy-type editorials over his own signature. But for some reason or other the majority of the people of the United States never seem to be swayed to an appreciable degree by what he or his newspapers say. In the matter of the gubernatorial primaries and his attempt to ridicule the victor of that contest, Mr. Hearst seems to ignore altogether the fact that several hundred thousand Californians appear to want Sinclair to be their next governor, and want him very badly. It is significant, moreover, that Sinclair, a life-long Socialist and one of the world's most widely-read radical writers, should have polled 125,000 more votes than his nearest Democratic rival for the nomination. He is running as a Democrat because he wants to "use an old party for a new job."

In spite of what Mr. Hearst sent out from the mud of Bad Nauheim, the fact remains, as implied by one commentator, that Sinclair is not only one of the shrewdest politicians who has dawned on the public consciousness since Franklin D. Roosevelt arose to prominence, but that he is the leader of a campaign which really is a crusade. His slogan, "End Poverty in California," has naturally drawn to his "EPIC" crusade all the dissatisfied elements of the State, and with more than a million unemployed in California, that is a tremendous strength, even though the man who holds it is, politically speaking, the most vulnerable ever to offer himself for office.

Property interests, which, of course, include Mr. Hearst, are thoroughly alarmed that a man of Sinclair's point of view could capture the nomination of one of the old parties. Capturing the nomination, however, does not mean certain victory in the final test in November—he is in the same position as a candidate for parliamentary honors in this country—but his primary victory the other day gives him most of the best cards in the election pack.

Sinclair professes no personal desire for kudos, we are assured, because he already makes more money out of his writings than his salary of governor would bring him in. With him it is plainly a crusade for the poor man, just as Roosevelt crusaded two years ago for the "forgotten man." It is a good drawing card in these times.

SENIOR VICE-PRESIDENT

THE APPOINTMENT OF MR. D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, to succeed the late Mr. Grant Hall as senior vice-president of the system is of special interest to the Canadian public, particularly in British Columbia where he is widely known and highly esteemed. He has been in the company's service for thirty-five years, beginning in a clerical capacity, from which he has risen by dint of exceptional ability and industry. Few Canadians possess so intimate a knowledge of Canada, her history and her people, and none has greater confidence in her future.

While railroading naturally has been Mr. Coleman's chief activity, it has not engrossed his time and talents to the exclusion of other interests affecting the country's welfare. He has long been prominent in Canadian Club circles, and is a former president of that organization in Winnipeg. He also is Chancellor of the University of Manitoba. He is an accomplished public speaker and in his all-too-few addresses never fails to give a lasting message to his audience. He has many friends in Victoria who will be gratified to learn of his translation to the senior vice-presidency of the great transportation system he has served so ably for many years.

STOUT-HEARTED HEPBURN

POLITICAL MEMORIES SEEM TO BE very short—especially Conservative memories—if The Toronto Telegram's comment on the sale of Ontario government automobiles is to be considered serious. This is what we find:

The Telegram, August 29
Most of the eighty-seven cars sold are needed in the various branches of the provincial service if efficiency is to be maintained and should not have been sold at all.

The Telegram, September 5
Sale of used motor cars by the Hepburn government disposed of nearly one hundred vehicles, many of which showed evidence of long service. Wisdom of the government's action in selling many of the cars is hardly in dispute.

Ontario, of course, has been governed by the Tory party for so long that there is going on now a good deal of rubbing of political eyes. It is taking a little time to get used to the idea which prevailed between 1867 and 1905. Mr. Hepburn, young, practical and fearless, has a length of broom which is reaching the cobwebs at Queen's Park. Naturally it is disturbing for some people; but he is not the least perturbed. If they squirm, he implies that they are at perfect liberty to squirm. And, says he by suggestion, what are they going to do about it?

Premier Hepburn has behind him a very large volume of public opinion in Ontario. He has been given a mandate to do what he thinks should be done. He may weaken a little as office may mellow him. For the time being he is leading.

THE RED "TERROR"

ARTHUR BRISBANE, WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST'S columnist, quotes a prominent United States business man as saying that "business is actually in a state of terror. What do you suppose it is that frightens business men? The biggest kind of war would not create the fear that exists among the country's important business executives."

Says Brisbane: "Perhaps you can answer the question. Some are afraid of the little Communist red mouse, with 26,000 members out of 123,000,000 population! The Mickey Mouse gentleman ought to write a 'Who's Afraid of the Great Big Red Mouse?'"

All this must seem rather funny to people who live in countries where freedom of thought and speech is recognized as the bulwark of democracy. Mr. Brisbane, with a wealth of experience of evolution under all heads, implies that it is time this continent took looking under the bed o' nights expecting to find some bewhiskered disturber of the social and economic four-poster.

An interesting commentary is found in the fact that Great Britain, France, and Italy are working hard at Geneva to insure Russia's admission to a permanent seat on the Council of the League of Nations.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NOT DARING TO DO IT
The Baltimore Sun

The spectacle of at least two Presidents of the Greatest Nation on Earth, knowing what must be done in respect to the war debts, surrounded by economists and statesmen who know what must be done, yet not daring to do it, is a pitiful and humiliating one. It augurs badly indeed for America's future as a constructive and vigorous force in the international community.

THE BONE OF CONTENTION
The Quebec Chronicle Telegraph

The real reason that France distrusts the intentions of Germany is because she knows that Germany will not allow the Saar Valley to be taken from her without a struggle. And the attitude of France towards the Saar Valley is much the same as that of Japan towards Manchuria. Germany, conversely, wishes to rearm—quite apart from the humiliation of her relative inferiority in this respect—because she desires to protect her interests in the Saar Valley, by force if necessary. Nor is there much that can be done about it all while these territorial violences are committed.

GENERAL LYAUTEY'S TOMB
The Montreal Star

Marshal Lyautey could have been buried in the Invalides, where France honors her great dead. He chose instead to rest in the land he had won for France, and he built his own tomb on the Moroccan coast. It will be a Mecca for generations unborn as the last resting-place of one of the greatest Frenchmen, whose only desire was to serve his country and his flag. He, as governor, had given the Moroccan hospitals and schools. He had showed unfailing respect at all times to the customs of Arab and Berber alike, and he saw to it that all who served under him did the same. He convinced the Moroccans that under his administration they were guaranteed, and actually enjoyed, full personal liberty and full security of property.

A THOUGHT

Every man is brutish by his knowledge; every founder is confounded by the graven image; for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them.—Jeremiah 17:17.

It is not he who forms idols in gold or marble that makes them gods, but he who kneels before them.—Martian.

Loose Ends

A mere apology for a column—but what do you expect on a morning like this—when the first rain is coming down—and Mr. Walters is stealing our property—and the psychologists are loose in high places?

By H. B. W.

NASTY BUSINESS

YOU KNOW, there are mornings, like this, one awakes in the newspaper business with a fine loathing of the public. Here am I at 7 a.m., huddled over a typewriter. Outside it is raining the first fall rain, infusing and heating the last flowers of the summer to pieces, and drumming a melancholy tattoo on the oak leaves, trickling eerily from the eaves. And the first leaves are falling, falling, falling. And there are you, the public, snug in your bed window, chilled and one hasn't a single idea in one's head! At such moments, the public becomes a hideous ogre, back there somewhere in the shadows, waiting to pounce on you, if you don't think up an idea before breakfast time, and you wish you were going in for a snarling business like plumbing or undertaker.

In the pale morning light I take up a week-old newspaper, resolving in desperation to retail to you the first items, however dull, that happen to catch my attention.

Yet what to tell the public on a grim, ghastly morning like this? What possible note of cheer can one strike when the summer is writhing in its death agonies just beyond the window, chilled and one hasn't a single idea in one's head! At such moments, the public becomes a hideous ogre, back there somewhere in the shadows, waiting to pounce on you, if you don't think up an idea before breakfast time, and you wish you were going in for a snarling business like plumbing or undertaker.

In the pale morning light I take up a week-old newspaper, resolving in desperation to retail to you the first items, however dull, that happen to catch my attention.

BLOOD

THE FIRST item that strikes my eye comes from Aberdeen. There Lord Raglan, chairman of the Anthropological Society of Great Britain, told the British Association for the Advancement of Science that the black and white races will merge in America after a little while. "I believe," he said, "that before many centuries have elapsed there will not be a single person in America without a certain portion of negro blood." And he added that much negro blood was distributed unknown through the white population already.

This is an important thought and so obviously true that, like most obvious things, it is never looked at. A simple mathematical calculation on the birth rates of the black and white races in America will prove by indisputable figures, indeed, that in the course of time the blacks must possess the continent; just as you can prove on a larger scale that the colored races will possess the entire world.

A fellow wrote a book in Toronto last year to prove that the United States would be inhabited within a century by a brown race, about the shade of the Mexicans, and with an entirely new character produced by the blending of the Anglo-Saxon, European and the Negro strains. His idea was that Canada would be the home of the white race in America, and that we should get ready for our high destiny. His figures to prove the dilution and admixture of both the white and black strains across the border were quite astounding. But how Canada is to be preserved from this condition over a long period one can't quite see, for all the whites who are admitted here will probably be partly brown.

It seems inescapable that your great-great-grandson, or at least your great-grandson, one, will have a strain of black blood.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"I'm afraid I shouldn't stop now, Mr. Markham. I gotta get this milk delivered."

in him. But such things, like the decline of empires and the collapse of civilizations, while inevitable are so slow that they are never faced or realized by those present at the decline and collapse. It is a merciful provision of nature that no man can get really worked up into a passion about the fate of his great-great-grandson. And I dare say that gentlemen won't worry about his blood.

HIGH-GRADE

ANOTHER DISPATCH from Wisconsin quotes Dr. Joseph Jastrow as telling the American Psychological Association that Hitler is a high-grade psychopath, terribly frightened, guilty of over-self-esteem, a fanatic of a following, not a leading type, suffering from delusions and otherwise abnormal.

This seems a bit hard, don't you think? It is as if we are going to let the psychologists run loose among our public men, who is going to be safe? Just sit back for a moment and let your mind wander comfortably over the field of Canadian statecraft, starting from the top, and imagine what a man like Dr. Jastrow would say about it. The mind lingers in unholy ecstasy on the lush and gorgeous findings of a competent psychologist like Jastrow if he spent a few days in Ottawa, or even in our Legislature. But why bother to go to all this trouble? Simpler for the public just to refer to our rulers as politicians. When you call a man that, everybody knows what you mean.

THEFT

ON THE editorial page of this paper it happens to be that my friend Ernie Walters has been on a literary binge. He has come over to Victoria and slunk about this countryside trying to find Mr. Pudgey, Mr. Beak and the little girl next door. He tells a wonderful Vancouver that he found them all right and interviewed them in my absence, and he seems to think he has put something over me.

This is what I would call a typical Vancouver trick—a bare-faced theft and a scandalous invasion of our innocent island civilization. I can imagine Vancouver stealing our business, our culture—even our sea-serpent. But I hadn't expected to see it steal Mr. Pudgey and Mr. Beak, whom I had come to regard as my private property. And I am going to tell those two gentlemen that if they talk to fellows like Mr. Walters again they'll never get into this newspaper. I mean, after all my trouble building up their reputation, to have them go and sell themselves in slavery and shame to Vancouver!

BEARDS

CLOSE BESIDE Mr. Walter's scandalous theft is an item which says that in Rumania the government is placing a license fee on them. Perhaps taxation will discourage mere Rumanians from growing beards, but if it does, they must be a poor, spineless race. Here it would have no such effect. Here, the more you tax a thing, the more it flourishes. You tax race track betting unmercifully, and it continues to increase. You tax liquor to discourage its use and behold (to the secret joy of all governments) more and more of it is drunk until we may yet drink our way back to prosperity if the government will let it hard enough. You tax automobiles as if every driver were a potential criminal (which he probably is) and cars increase like rabbits. You tax a man so much to live, indeed, that many people wonder if life is worth while at the price, but I see by the society page of the same paper that the young are still marrying a hardy race, indeed.

It may work in Rumania, but if the government wants to start an epidemic of beards here, let it tax them. Our freedom-loving people will spring to arms. Beards will patriotically sprout on every street corner.

It is a good idea, too. What the world lacks most of all at this juncture is some distraction of this sort, something unimportant and human that the public can get worked up about. Then it can take its mind off the depression and the Way Out. If the public mind could be kept off the Way Out for a while, our government might have time to find it. But behold, before I am half way through the paper, the rain has stopped. The sun is coming out. That hydra-headed monster, the public, will be stirring in its grog sleep about now, getting ready for another day. I have some fine Golden Delicious apples to pick, so we'll have to postpone this business of writing a column until to-morrow. The public is going to be pretty mad to-night.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELS

BEAD SONG AT NIGHT
Forget your anger for a little time,
Forget your pride and hate,
Through darkness hear swift notes that lift and shine,
The leaping lines can wait!
These measures, throbbing through the dusky night,
Upon dim seas embark:
This liquid, living, crystal-clear delight
Gains power from the dark.
A bird, so slight his joyous lyrics shake
With stinging great night's threats that cannot break
His spirit, whence song came.

THANKS

To the Editor:—May I be permitted space in your column to express thanks to the directors of the B.C. Agriculture Association? On behalf of the less fortunate citizens of Victoria, namely the men, their womenfolk and children, also the single men, who are recipients of relief, for being granted passage to the exhibition. By this, these citizens are accorded an opportunity of viewing the exhibits.

C.C.F. CANDIDATES

To the Editor:—In answer to a letter in The Times last week from a "Would-be C.C.F.," I can testify that the C.C.F. clubs in wards 1 and 2 also contain only relief workers. So then, if only delegates from these clubs have any say in the matter as to who shall be a candidate in the federal election, the C.C.F. in Saanich is entirely in the hands of the relief workers. I know nothing of the merits of these suggested candidates but we all noticed last year that all of a sudden the right sort of people withdrew from the C.C.F. and the relief people took charge.

AN ARDENT C.C.F.ER.

THE MORRO CASTLE

To the Editor:—One hesitates to contradict the word of the worthy police chief of Cuba, who ruled long ago gave up the pretence of rule by the people and took their positions behind the machine-guns aimed at the people. But thought, but in fact it should be pointed out to the Communist, no member of the Third International, would participate in an act of terrorism like the firing of the Morro Castle. If the Cuban police had time between acts to do a little reading of history, they would know that both Marx and Lenin, the nihilistic, anarchistic elements from the revolutionary movement, aiming—as they said—to supplant bourgeois disorder by revolutionary order.

Marx's action nearly split the First International and Lenin's demand for world mass action rather than isolated direct action, was what he had in mind when by his will and example he founded the Third International. If a man calling himself a Communist did fire the Morro Castle, then it is certain he has by now been ejected from the membership of the Third International.

Incidentally, it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good. The harassed police chief of Cuba, doing his part in maintaining his employment, has the will of the mass of the Cuban people, made a brilliant bid for world sympathy at a time when men on strike everywhere are trying to secure by mass action the betterment of a condition which in many cases is being maintained by isolated acts of terrorism.

MR. EVANS'S ADDRESS

To the Editor:—The report in yesterday's Times of W. Sanford Evans's presidential address at the Canadian Chamber of Commerce shows Mr. Evans to be under at least two misapprehensions which, in a man in his influential position, are at least unfortunate. At bottom he deplores and regrets the regulations and restrictions placed on business, saying that they must not interfere with the rights of the industrial—namely the business man. Since individualism in business has the world over, shown itself incapable in the last analysis of conducting business with an eye to any interests but its own, it has shown itself anti-social and unbelievably short sighted and, furthermore, has demonstrated the restriction and safeguards against which it, with our amiable Mr. Evans, jibes. Most emphatically, where commercial and individual interests are confined upon for they are, in fact, not "rights." Let "business" understand that fact once for all, and thoroughly.

Secondly—Mr. Evans delivers himself of the childish (or else insincere) and untenable statement that business is "by its very nature individualistic." The aim of business is presumably success. Ultimate success of the individual, in keen competition with other individuals, at the expense of the community as a whole is self-evidently impossible. Business is individualistic only as, and in so far as, selfishness and power have made it so, resulting in the present restrictions which Mr. Evans and others of his kind, in an effort to get us out of the impossible mess these individuals have got us into.

A POINT OF VIEW

To the Editor:—Your editorial of Monday's paper, "The Body Can Starve If Mind Is Fed," is all right in its way. But what would you have Germany do?

We've spoken disparagingly of her militarism, her nationalism, her Hitlerism, and now we fear her indifference. Recollect, after the World War, Germany was receptive to any reasonable suggestion. But France feared and drank deep of the wine of militarism—which her foe had just relinquished. France dominated the League, and the other Allied powers each in turn administered the kicks which in general opinion Germany deserved.

So the Allies, so to speak, pitched their tents on the hillsides, and to Germany would be relegated the valleys.

France, too, metaphorically speaking, could see the Germans creeping along through the thickets of despair and found escape by the simple measure of deliberately choosing to live from within herself with (maybe) one eye on Japan.

And what I see no reason why the German people should select the go-as-you-please traffic regulations of ourselves, for history proves that chaos is usually the result of crude diversity.

For nothing carries us from low to the high but requires us in principle to move on from the high to the highest.

When your fundamentals are true, all strength is conquering—but only then.

The strength of our Empire lies in the fact that we are tolerant, commercial and casual rather than our deep search for truth.

Hence our gift for seeing and governing backward nations.

Further, I do not think the German legislated against the Jew because he was a Jew.

He discovered that those who counted themselves the elect possessed a very hard and had a tremendous love for money, and it was against this hard ambition and material power that the German legislated.

The German knows well enough that man grew out of the Jewish to the Christian stage. Also he might not feel that what will be is what so many are expecting, the continuation of that which now is seen, but rather a bringing out of that which is still hidden. Not being a British Israelite, he does not believe it is man's mission to retrograde, as some believe, to Jewish ceremonies, but rather an opening up of the gates of heaven, and a continuous finding of the things of God, a moving to something still higher and broader and more spiritual.

Big Ben Has Been Newly Decorated

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 12.—Big Ben has had his faces washed and all dotted up with crimson paint and bright gold. A drab and gloomy landmark when it was put in splendor for overhauling, Big Ben reappeared in the same glittering finery as it did in the early sixties.

The gold is real gold, too, applied in the form of the thinnest of gold leaf.

FOUR-LEGGED DRAKE AT FAIR

One of the most amazing exhibits at the fall fair is this four-legged duck, which belongs to Lewis West, 1890 Hamilton Street.

Now and then farmers have gazed in astonishment when a four-legged chick emerged from its shell, but it is seldom that freaks are discovered among ducklings.

The extra pair of legs, as can be seen in the picture, are on the left side of the duck, just above and behind the left front leg. The duck is perfectly normal except for its additional limbs and these do not hinder it in the least. The duck wiggles them now but otherwise can do nothing else with them. The legs have grown considerably since birth.

Mr. West has a large number of ducks, but this is the first freak he has ever hatched. He says:

"I believe the drake came out of a perfectly normal egg, but then I can't be sure. You see there were a whole lot of eggs in the incubator, but I don't think I put in a double yolk or deformed egg."

This famous drake was born in April. It is a cross between a Pekin and a Mallard.

BALLAD OPERA ORIGIN TOLD

G. Marston Haddock Talks and Sings to Kiwanians at Luncheon To-day

The origin of the English ballad opera in the time of Cromwell was briefly described to members of the Kiwanis Club, at their luncheon yesterday in the Empress Hotel, by G. Marston Haddock who has brought his English Opera Players to Victoria for their first appearance at the Empire Theatre in "Love in a Village," and "The Farmer." Mr. Haddock illustrated his remarks with several unaccompanied early folk songs.

The ballad opera, Mr. Haddock stated, started when Cromwell said the theatres of England were places of vice. Theatrical leaders sought to get around his edict, when they remembered Cromwell was passionately fond of music. So they put songs into their plays, and got away with it on the grounds that it was musical entertainment.

The songs took public fancy, Mr. Haddock said, and as time went on more songs were put into the plays. The songs were those of the period, those which were popular with the masses of the people and as such the plays contained every type of song. The plays could still be produced without the songs, Mr. Haddock said, but of course would lose much of their charm.

NATIONAL ANTHEM

Mr. Haddock referred to the British National Anthem and said there were several theories as to its origin, but the most likely was that it was written by a Dr. John Bull about 1600 and was first sung in public in Covent Garden Opera House in 1745, during the ballad opera, Mr. Haddock sang the version as written by Dr. Bull, with the words first used at Covent Garden. This version is very similar to the National Anthem as sung to-day.

Mr. Haddock also sang a ballad of 1690 and a Shropshire folk song entitled "Bingo." Seated at the head table with the guest of honor were Mrs. Bruce Cossin and J. Harry Davis, both of whom spoke a few words. Mr. Davis telling something of the work being accomplished by the Victoria Operatic Society, which just now is busy with "A Country Girl."

S. J. D. Clark, president of the club presided at the luncheon and introduced Mr. Haddock, who was thanked for his address and songs by Mr. Davis.

DALE PITT GOES TO AUSTRALIA

Man Who Developed Premier Takes Over New Property For Guggenheims

Dale L. Pitt, general manager of the Premier Gold Mining Company, and known as one of the two most successful operators in British Columbia in recent years, is leaving to take over the development of the Big Bell Mine in Western Australia, another development of the American Smelting and Refining Company which controls the Premier Gold.

He is sailing from San Francisco, accompanied by Mrs. Pitt and family, who since the latter part of the Great War, when the Premier was developed, have made their home at the mine, some eighteen miles back in the mountains from Stewart, B.C. Mrs. Pitt and the family will spend the winter in Honolulu, where Robert has been in school for the last year.

The Big Bell Mine is a huge low grade gold property which has been extensively diamond drilled. It is held on a long term lease, with half the ownership of the lease lodged with the A.S. and R. and half with Premier Gold.

Decision to transfer Mr. Pitt from British Columbia was reached by the Guggenheims in New York, where are located the headquarters of their world-wide organization. Mr. Pitt was called to New York, where the decision was made known to him. He returned to the coast a few days ago, traveling by airlines and making the journey from coast to coast in twenty-four hours.

Mr. Pitt is well known in professional mining organizations. His selection by the Guggenheims heads to direct the development of the big Australian property, is regarded in professional circles as a signal honor and a recognition of his achievement with the Premier, which he opened as one of the most spectacular gold mines in Canadian history.

The Big Bell Mine is located twenty miles from Cue and 300 miles by rail from Port Geraldton. The orebody, as explored, is eighty feet wide and between 900 and 1,000 feet in length. Values are low but consistent. It is expected the property will be equipped with a mill with 1,000 tons a day capacity.

While in the East Mr. Pitt inspected the Tabor mine in the Klondike Lake district, in which the Premier has a controlling interest. He said the development there was satisfactory.

Young People's Church Societies

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A.

To commence the 1934-35 season of A.Y.P.A. activities, St. John's young people entertained members and friends at a gay nineties party. The young people arrived attired in quaint old-fashioned costumes depicting the last years of the 19th century. The proceedings started with a grand march, accompanied by the A.Y.P.A. orchestra, and was followed by a fashion parade. The prize for the best costume was awarded to Miss Noresen Greenman, who was attired in a stately ball gown with tulle train, designed with numerous frills and a long train. The second prize was presented to Miss Thora Harrison, who arrived in a dainty flounced gown of stiffly starched muslin. One of the features of the evening was a treasure hunt, with clues well hidden in various corners, and ending with the discovery of the coveted treasure, which was won by Miss L. Trickett. The latter part of the evening was devoted to playing a number of novel games, previously arranged by Mr. Stan Cooper, and which were greatly enjoyed by the young people and after which prizes were presented to the winning contestants. Miss Betty Martin and her social committee served refreshments later, bringing the much enjoyed masquerade party to a close. A most cordial invitation was extended to the young people and their friends to attend the opening meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A., which will be held in the guild room of St. John's Church on Monday, September 17.

RAPS SAANICH SEWERS AGAIN

Alderman J. D. Hunter Gives Notice He Is Not Through With Sanitary Question

Further notice was served by Alderman J. D. Hunter, chairman of the city health committee, on Saanich that he has not yet finished his efforts to enforce a better sewerage system in that municipality, at least where it borders Victoria.

His remarks arose from the discussion of public works projects following the reception of a letter from the federal Minister of Public Works stating the auditorium proposal suggested by the city as a desirable undertaking in the Dominion public works programme was outside the bounds of the Ottawa scheme.

Alderman John A. Worthington had referred the matter back to the executive of the public works committee, noting some further suggestions might be advanced by which Victoria might have federal assistance in useful undertakings.

Alderman Hunter expressed his disappointment over the city's action in forwarding only the auditorium project to the federal authorities. He again brought forward his plan for work on the southern foreshore before suggesting some work be undertaken in Saanich along sewage disposal lines.

"Some time there will be a typhus epidemic spread over Victoria from Saanich," he contended, if conditions were not improved. "I do not want to wait until the horse has escaped before I shut the stable door," he added.

NEW PLAN FOR SURPLUS CATTLE

Governments to Aid in Processing of Animals Now in Drought Areas

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Manitoba Minister of Agriculture, in a statement today threw further light on the plan to dispose of surplus cattle in the drought areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Alberta may also be included in the scheme.

Mr. McKenzie's statement said a co-operative policy had been agreed on by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Hon. J. O. Taggart, Minister of Agriculture of Saskatchewan, himself, managers of Winnipeg packing plants and the Canadian railways whereby surplus cattle from the drought areas of southwestern Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan would be disposed of through the packing plants. One stipulation in the statement of the terms was that "Packers will process cattle at cost and market the product in so far as possible outside the boundaries of Canada." Another said "total net proceeds of sale of processed cattle and offal will be returned to the primary producer."

Weddings

HUTCHISON-WALLACE
The residence of Rev. T. H. McAllister, Qu'Appelle Street, was the scene of a wedding on Friday evening last, when Edith Isabelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wallace of Port Alberni, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Hutchison, Ellice Street, Victoria. Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James Mabel, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, who wore a becoming gown of ivory silk crepe with close fitting hat. Her corsage bouquet was of bridal roses and carnations. Miss Mary Foster, wearing a frock of powder blue colored crepe, was the bridesmaid in attendance. Mr. A. McPhee supported the bridegroom. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's father, Mr. R. Hutchison. Receiving the guests were Misses Max and Beatrice Hutchison. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hutchison left on their wedding trip for Seattle and Vancouver and on their return will make their home at Port Alberni.

PELLETT-LAMERTON
St. John's Church was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock, when Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick celebrated the nuptials of Dorothy Sylvia Mabel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lamerton, Hillside Avenue, to Mr. Harold Pellett, eldest son of Mrs. H. Earl, 1274 Centre Road, and the late Harold Pellett.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was an attractive figure in her floor-length, sleeveless gown of white silk net, embroidered in pale pink floral design, with low neckline falling off the shoulders, and tucked skirt with a broad sash of pale pink silk tied at the back in a large bow. With it she wore a broad-brimmed white picture hat, white mottled slippers and white silk mitts, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and pale pink roses.

Her only bridesmaid was Miss Laura Monahan in a pretty frock of pale green organza, adorned at the neckline with a yellow bow, and finished at the waist with a sash of yellow, tied at the back. She wore a white picture hat, white shoes and gloves, and carried a sheaf of pale pink carnations. Mr. Albert Pellett supported the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, the reception being given by Mrs. Hutchison. The young couple stood before a wall of pink and white flowers with a pink and white wedding bell to receive the good wishes of their friends. Mrs. Earl, wearing a smart grey suit with white hat, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Lamerton, who wore a navy blue suit with white vest, and a white hat. Both wore corsage bouquets of pale pink carnations.

NEW NIGHT CLUB

TO BE SUPER-RITZY

New York, Sept. 12.—The depression has brought about a curious blending of Park avenue and Broadway in the night spots, but such nocturnal democracy is showing signs of crumbling. All manner of intimate and genuinely exclusive new places are being planned, but without a doubt the "snootiest" of the lot will be the building in Rockefeller Centre. Its clientele is to be strictly Social Register, and song-pluggers, theatrical agents and butterfly-legged men will not even be able to get in the servants' entrance.

For music, the club sought some tune-director completely unassociated by association with the more proletarian salons. Ray Noble of London, finally was selected, but the engagement was cancelled. Ludwig Gluska, who appeared in London for twelve years, now seems slated for the spot.

The proprietors will be the only night club with a pipe organ. And what a pipe organ! Engineers have rigged it so its sound vibrates the dome of the room, will be flooded in waves of red. Twinkling tremolos bring flickers of yellow, and so on. Very "la-de-da" for all but the color blind guests.

Mrs. C. F. Armstrong and Mrs. M. F. Driscoll, York Place, Oak Bay, are spending a few days in Seattle.

Mr. H. Josey of San Antonio, Tex., is spending a few days at Brenta Lodge for the fishing.

Mr. Arnold Hanna, M.P.P., and family have removed from Alberni and will make their future home in this city.

Mr. Eddie Rowbotham, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowbotham, 2632 Shelbourne Street, is leaving to-day on board the Ss. Aorangi for Stanthorpe, Queensland, Australia.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Green of Kaslo arrived in Victoria recently on a visit to Mr. Green's brother and sister-in-law, Senator and Mrs. R. F. Green, Rupert Street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Balshaw and daughter of Edmonton were recent guests at Brenta Lodge, Brentwood. Miss Marjorie E. Herald of Vancouver is spending her vacation also at Brenta Lodge.

Miss Doreen Drummond-Hay, Gorge Road, who has been spending the summer months in Great Britain, will sail from Southampton on September 26 on the Empress of Australia on her return to Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O'Meara, Gorge Road West, have returned from Port Townsend where they have been spending a few days with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Meara.

Miss H. Simpson, 908 Market Street, left yesterday evening for San Francisco, where she will sail on the liner President Johnston on a round-the-world cruise, and expects to be away about four and a half months.

Mrs. Edith Bockall and her two sons, Ernest and Frank, have returned to Ladner after spending the summer holidays in Victoria. Mrs. Bockall will resume her duties on the teaching staff of the High School there.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Winslow, Craigdarroch, have as their guest their niece, Miss Jean Thompson, of Fredericton, New Brunswick, in honor of whom Mrs. Winslow entertained at a luncheon party to-day at the Oak Bay Golf Club.

Mrs. Geoffrey Ellis of Vernon and her small son, William John, have left for their home in the interior after visiting in Victoria with Mrs. Ellis, who is the wife of H. M. Mullin, Beach Drive, and with Mrs. W. Ellis at her summer home on Salt Spring Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Eden Quinton of Seattle and their small son, Anthony Eden, left this morning on their return to their home in Washington State after spending the last few weeks in Victoria with Mr. Quinton's parents, Very Rev. C. S. Quinton and Mrs. Quinton, at the Deaneys and with Mrs. Quinton's mother, Mrs. A. Oates, Woodlawn Crescent.

Colonel Macdonald has made a special study of the histories and uniforms of British regiments, and his designs for the plaques commemorating the Highland regiments were accepted for the Scottish War Memorial at Edinburgh.

Colonel R. J. Macdonald is the eldest son of the late Senator Macdonald of Armadale, Victoria, and brother of Major A. D. Macdonald, of the Victoria Fusiliers, and of Miss Macdonald, Clive Drive, Victoria.

Four tables in play, the first prize going to Mrs. B. Zala, the second to Mrs. N. Hitchcock, and the consolation to Mrs. F. Tom. Miss Kinney was then presented with a spray of pink carnations and fern, and a miniature bungalow buried in snow and icicles, typical of the Yukon, where she will reside. On opening the door it was piled to the chimney with beautiful gifts. The guests included Mrs. J. Morris, Mrs. F. Romin, Mrs. B. Zala, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Jeeves, Mrs. Speck, Mrs. C. A. Kinney, Mrs. P. Plimley, Mrs. A. H. Wilkerson, Mrs. Danby, Mrs. F. Tom, Mrs. W. Hitchcock, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. Gatz, Mrs. C. Kinney, Mrs. Sandy, Mrs. L. D. Michell and Miss M. A. Kinney.

Mesdames G. Craigie and P. Brown were hostesses at a miscellaneous on Monday night at the latter's home, 1260 Rendall Street, in honor of Miss Mary Brooks, a popular bride-elect. The rooms were artistically decorated in a colour scheme of pink and white, and the tables were covered with white cloths, and decorated with pink and white flowers. Entertainment was much enjoyed with games, music, dancing and a mock wedding, later a buffet supper was served. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. Craigie, Mr. and Mrs. F. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gibson, Mrs. M. Brooks, Mrs. H. Chalmers, Mrs. D. Proudlove, Mrs. B. Chambers, Mrs. M. Mills, Misses Isabelle and Ruby Craigie, Pearl White, R. "Electric Woman"
Still a Mystery

Venice, Italy, Sept. 12.—Anna Monaro, Italy's "electric woman," today has been exonerated by a committee of experts of suspicions that her blue glow seen to emanate from her throat was a product of her own suggestive powers.

The published report, however, left as much of a mystery as ever the actual cause of the phenomenon, which was observed and reported on by several scientists some months ago.

CHILDREN HAPPY

IN FOSTER HOMES

WOMEN ARE TOLD

That the policy of the Children's Aid Society in placing children in foster homes, rather than giving institutional care, was proving beneficial to the children was attested by Mrs. F. G. Aldous, superintendent of the society, in her interesting address yesterday afternoon.

Miss King spoke at the luncheon arranged by the Women's Auxiliary to the society at the Hudson's Bay Company yesterday. She described the method of caring for the children who come within its care, the finding of foster homes, the investigation which precedes the placing of all children in the care of foster parents, and of the supervision which follows later. No child, she explained, is placed with a family on relief or who has not sufficient means for the support, the sum of $3.50 per child is allowed to each family.

Forty-two children are in the care of the society, of whom twenty-seven are in foster homes, Miss King stated. She spoke in warm praise of the care bestowed upon these children by their foster-parents, and brought much happiness to the underprivileged youngsters.

After congratulating the Women's Auxiliary upon the valuable help given by its sewing committee in making garments for the children, Miss King made a general appeal for winter clothing, particularly for boys and girls from ten to fifteen years of age. Although the monthly allowance paid for the children is enough to provide clothes for the little tots, the society is obliged to provide the older ones with suitable clothing.

Mrs. F. Daniels, president of the Women's Auxiliary, introduced Miss King, and invited all women interested in work for children to assist in making clothes for the winter, or in supplying materials which will be made up.

Immediately following the singing of "O Canada" the members stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. David Spencer.

ward; the assisting of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.; the publication of "Pioneer Women of British Columbia," in commemoration of the splendid women of an earlier day; the founding of a bursary fund to provide bursaries to the boy and girl receiving the highest standing in matriculation; prizes to be awarded to classes taking best standing in home economics work, and history prizes to be presented in Matriculation School in memory of one of the much-revered presidents of the club.

MAKING PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Friendly Help and Kindred Societies to Start Drive for $43,500 Next Month

Special committees of the Friendly Help and Kindred Societies and the welfare societies in Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt are now working out plans for the campaign for $43,500, which will commence October 15. It is hoped that everyone in Greater Victoria who is reasonably able to do so, will aid these organizations in their fine work among the unfortunate and needy families of the city and its surrounding districts.

The money to be collected next month is expected to last for twelve months. The Friendly Help is the main body, but a proportion will be allotted to each municipality. Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt look after their own needy, but any social service work needed there is referred to the Victoria organization, whose trained case workers are sent out on the job.

SOCIAL SERVICE
Social service work is the ultimate object of the Friendly Help Welfare Association. But in the meantime many families in Greater Victoria are in need of the bare necessities of life and much money is needed for this.

It takes a great amount to outfit hundreds of youngsters for the winter months. Shoes alone are a tremendous item. But it is much cheaper to provide shoes in time than to provide medical and hospital treatment should serious colds and other illnesses develop through lack of stout shoes and warm clothing.

The money collected for this splendid work early last December is just about exhausted. Hundreds of families in Greater Victoria are in need of what they would have done without the aid given them by their relief organization.

Many of them say it put them on their feet and with that help they were able to establish themselves in life again.

Was First White Woman in Central American Jungles

Ruth Reeves Sent by Carnegie Institute to Get Inspiration For Fabric Designs

The naturalness and simplicity which Ruth Reeves (left) liked best in Guatemalan natives is strikingly reflected in pictures of the woman and girl weaver at right.

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE
Bored with life and the ways of civilization? Maybe what you need is a trip to Guatemala where you'll meet natives who are so simple and honest and self-respecting that they'll restore your lost faith in human nature and send you home a better person.

At least that is what Ruth Reeves, industrial artist, judging by her own Guatemalan experiences, thinks would likely happen. Miss Reeves is just back from months of traveling jungle through country where no white woman had ever before been seen and tourist motor cyclists in goggles were taken for fearless devils.

The head of her village to petition the motorcyclists away because their women, seeing the creatures, were taking to their beds, nauseated with fright," Miss Reeves relates. "In other villages where I went no white persons were allowed to stay overnight."

AWARDED $5,000 GRANT
Besides her idyllic memories, Miss Reeves has brought back tangible souvenirs of Guatemala in the way of costumes, fabrics and sketches which she will use as a basis for new American fabric designs. The Carnegie Institution of Washington tried her on the jump for the express purpose of getting such material, giving her the first grant ever awarded to an industrial artist, and the first in any art field to a woman.

Miss Reeves had seen Guatemalan textiles in museums and had been fascinated by the design and coloring. But she wanted a closer, more intimate view of the native Guatemalan, seeing the creatures, were taking to their beds, nauseated with fright," Miss Reeves relates. "In other villages where I went no white persons were allowed to stay overnight."

Victoria Wins District Exhibit At Willows Fair

Tolmie Cup Comes Back From Langley

Langley Second, Burnaby Third; Mayor Leeming Presents Prize to John Naysmith Who Arranged Local Display

The agricultural championship of British Columbia was awarded to the Victoria District yesterday at the Provincial Exhibition at the Willows. A magnificent display, organized and arranged by John Naysmith and his sons, won first place from a field of five districts, the standing of the others being, respectively, Langley, Burnaby, Coquitlam and Surrey.

Last week at Vancouver the Victoria display won the famous "Horn of Plenty" trophy, by a margin of less than one point over Langley. To win the Tolmie Cup and the honors of the Provincial Fair, the Naysmith organization earned sixty additional points to bring their total to 1,762½, yet only defeated Langley, who are defending the cup, by less than five points, the runners-up scoring the brilliant total of 1,758 points.

The result of the competition was announced at 5 o'clock and a large group of friends speedily flocked to the Main Building to congratulate Mr. Naysmith upon his success. Mayor Leeming was notified and went to the display to present the trophy to the winner. He was accompanied by Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the Fair Association, D. McTavish, E. M. Whyte, J. McTavish, W. H. Mearns, secretary of the association, F. B. Pemberton, Horace White, president of the Victoria Horticultural Society, W. H. Robertson, provincial horticulturist, E. W. White, district horticulturist, and many others.

MAYOR'S CONGRATULATIONS
Mayor Leeming said: "It is my very pleasant task to make this presentation in the districts exhibits class. Victoria District has won with an exhibit in competition with Langley, Burnaby, Surrey and Coquitlam. These exhibits cover classes in which the points it was possible to earn totaled 1,945. Victoria got 1,762½, a really wonderful achievement, yet Langley was just 4½ less with 1,758 points."

the competition and the excellence of the respective collections. Mayor Leeming noted that, with the same judges officiating, only 180 points, or less than ten per cent, separated the highest score from the lowest.

"During the last week we have all been hearing some very congratulatory remarks concerning this achievement of John Naysmith," Mayor Leeming resumed. "During the past years he has won the grand aggregate of the Victoria Horticultural Society and has well earned his present honors. In presenting this cup, the Tolmie Trophy, to him I am proud to extend to Mr. Naysmith my own congratulations as well as those of the whole of the citizens of Victoria and its tributary districts."

"I would also mention that Mr. Naysmith recently won the 'Horn of Plenty' in Vancouver, that being the first time that trophy has been brought to Vancouver Island and Victoria."

Besides the horticultural results from the main building, the results of the rabbits and heavy horse competitions are also in. Goats and poultry are being judged to-day and Guernseys and Ayrshires will be adjudicated in the sawdust ring in the Horse Show Building. Swine winners have been named, but the sheep judging is still going on.

Due to the illness of H. Waby, the poultry judge, E. Greenwood, who judged the rabbits but is also a credited poultry arbitrator, has taken his place and is helping J. Allen, the other poultry judge, to go through the enormous number of fowls. In the main building the judges have accomplished their task. W. H. Robertson and G. Tice adjudicated the root crop, while E. W. White and G. W. Clarke decided on the best fruits and vegetables. The floral displays were in the hands of George Robinson, A. W. Finlay and H. Rive judged the honey and dairy products respectively.

Here are the total points scored by the five competitors in the district exhibit display. Out of a possible 1,945, Victoria scored 1,762½, Langley 1,758, Burnaby 1,719½, Coquitlam 1,620½-16, and Surrey 1,602-16. Other results of the fair are:

SAFETY SPEED COMFORT SERVICE

The Excellence of C.N.R. Service Exemplified by Dining Cars and Hotels.

With practically all forms of land transportation, other than railways, the only service rendered is the conveyance of the passenger from one place to another—that is all. Problems of personal convenience and comfort are left to the passenger to solve for himself as best he may. Railways, however, are the outstanding exception.

Not merely is this matter of transportation attended to, but it is done in such a way as to add to it the important considerations of safety, comfort and speed. The ideal striven for is to make the passenger feel—and be—as comfortable and as free from anxiety as he would be in his own home. That, at any rate, is the C. N. R. ideal. How this is being done can perhaps best be illustrated by taking C. N. R. dining cars and hotels as typical examples.

The dining car of a C. N. R. train is highly organized and expertly managed, and it meets adequately and unobtrusively the desires of even the most fastidious traveller. Here are to be had fixed-priced meals of a quality and variety which challenge those served under the most favourable conditions anywhere. In keeping with C. N. R. policy, the dining car service has been improved and modernised, and prices are as low as—and frequently lower than—prevail in city restaurants.

Then the C. N. R. hotels are among the best on the American continent. The Chateau Laurier at Ottawa, The Macdonald at Edmonton, and The Fort Garry at Winnipeg not only lend lustre to the cities in which they are situated, but are known all over the world. They have afforded hospitality to leading statesmen, financiers, and travellers from all corners of the globe, and their praises are proclaimed everywhere by those who appreciate and are able to command the best. One does not, however, require to be exalted in position or in purse to enjoy these and other C. N. R. hotels—their hospitality is available to all, whether it be for a sojourn of long duration or just for a meal.

The standards set by C. N. R. hotels and dining cars are very high. They are instanced here as being typical of C. N. R. service throughout the whole system. The desire is to provide the best at the lowest cost. You can test this for yourself. Travel by C. N. R. and be thoroughly satisfied.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McLEOD
© 1934 NGA, Seattle, Wash.

At this stage of her reflections she usually began to cry. She cried a great deal these days when Tom wasn't around. When he was at home they were cold, stiffly polite to each other. The promise of the earlier April days had faded and now it remained, coldly, steadily, unfeeling, for days. Gypsy was distracted. It meant staying indoors with the baby. His endless small garments were never dry. There were always limp lines of damp things stretched high in the kitchen. To crown it all, she felt ill and telephoned she would have to stay in bed for a week.

"I can't go on like this. I can't," she whispered to herself one dreary afternoon. April twilight was closing in and rain pelted against the windows. Several blocks away the grocery store had been late. David had coughed and she had been attending him.

Suddenly the whole thing was too much for her. The thin shell of composure which she had been building up for the past week cracked and she began to cry wildly, bitterly, in the silence and gloom of her apartment. Everything was hateful, dreary, impossible!

The bell rang and she looked about in a frenzy, snatching at a handkerchief to mop her eyes. She was a fright; she could not possibly see a caller just now. But when the summons sounded again long habit drove her to the door to answer it. Probably, she thought, it would be the little tailor around the corner.

Hunt Gibson stood in the doorway, lean, rangy, his soft hat in his hand, the collar of his waistcoat turned up. "I've been trying to get you by phone," he began. Then, in concerned voice, "Gypsy, what's the matter, child? Anything wrong?"

It was too late now to slide out of the situation. She made a little gesture of helplessness. "Nothing," she said, smiling. "Nothing much. Just having a good old-fashioned fit of the blues."

He was trying to get you by phone, he said, smiling. "Nothing much. Just having a good old-fashioned fit of the blues," she said, smiling. "Nothing much. Just having a good old-fashioned fit of the blues," she said, smiling.

Presently she found herself laughing shakily at one of his stories. It was amazing what a difference it made to have someone talk to you, simply and normally and amusingly. This was what she needed. . . .

"I mustn't disrupt your dinner hour," Hunt said at last. "I wanted you and Tom to dine with me and see 'Manhattan Mad' to-morrow night."

"I don't know," Gypsy began slowly. Her eyes lighted at the prospect. "Ella's away, ill, and I've no one to leave the baby with. But perhaps I could manage . . . may I call you later?"

"Certainly. Hope you can make it."

"How's Ella?" Gypsy was making conversation, just to keep him to find out that she was all right.

"She's fine. I haven't seen her lately. She's a grand girl."

"Isn't she?" And then Gypsy was dreadfully afraid she was going to cry again, thinking of what good times she and Ella had had together a few years ago. What a silly little fool she had been, to think life could go on like that!

"What's wrong, really?"

"She's fine. I haven't seen her lately. She's a grand girl."

"Isn't she?" And then Gypsy was dreadfully afraid she was going to cry again, thinking of what good times she and Ella had had together a few years ago. What a silly little fool she had been, to think life could go on like that!

CHAPTER XXXI

Gypsy had just fallen into a troubled sleep after toasting restlessly for hours. The shrilling of the telephone startled her bolt upright in her bed. Across the way Tom slept soundlessly, one arm flung over his head.

"Hello! Hello!" Her heart was thudding painfully. It might be a wrong number—of course, it might be. No use borrowing trouble. There was a faint humming at the other end. Then she heard her mother's voice, infinitely shaken.

"Gypsy!"

"Hello! Hello!" she called, passionately, as if by so doing she might take whatever trouble there was from her forehead. There was a faint humming at the other end. Then she heard her mother's voice, infinitely shaken.

Gypsy did not smoke but there was a stub in the tray and there were ashes. And Gypsy had been whistling.

"Rotten day," he offered in the silence as Gypsy brought in hot plates and vegetable dishes. He began to carve the steak.

"Oh, do you think so? Of course I didn't get out. I scarcely noticed the weather."

"He could have shaken her. 'Mother call!'"

"No."

He tried another tack. "Like to see a movie while I watch the baby?"

She shook her head vaguely. "You know I never go to a theatre alone."

"Oh, but I'm going out to-morrow night," she said on a sudden impulse. "I'm dining with Hunt and going to a play. You don't mind, do you?"

He shook his head slowly and his heart burned with anger. They couldn't go on this way, she told herself. There would have to be some understanding and that soon. She simply couldn't stand it.

HERITAGE OF ACQUIRED TRAITS IS DOUBTED

Experts Still Regard Human Sterilization, to Prevent Passage of Mental or Physical Defects, as Uncertain

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The question of inheritance of disease or of mental defects and its relationship to life is more prominent in the public eye to-day than ever before in history.

The great social experiments being made in many countries, including human sterilization in Germany, have served to focus attention particularly on heredity.

There was a time when scientists believed that acquired characteristics could be transmitted. Now this view has been largely abandoned because of the lack of any experimental evidence to support it and also because it has been shown that the reproductive cells are separated from the rest of the growing child at an early stage in its development.

It was thought at one time that epilepsy was hereditary; now we know it to be infective. Another early belief was that syphilis was hereditary; now we know that it is the organism of syphilis that is transmitted and that the disease itself is not truly hereditary.

However, there is good proof that human characteristics—both mental and physical—may be transmitted. For example, musical memory may run in families and, in fact, good memory altogether may be inherited in certain families.

The color of the eyes may be inherited, the shape of the chest, and the size of the body. This, of course, is common observation which you can make for yourself.

However, so far as concerns sterilization of the human being to prevent the passing on of mental and physical defects, the actual knowledge is so deficient and so exceedingly uncertain as to cause considerable doubt on the rightfulness or usefulness of human sterilization on a large scale.

Experts estimate that the lower one-fourth of the population is producing one-half of the next generation and that, therefore, there is a tendency for the lower half to multiply until it swamps the upper half.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the mentally defective strain is transmitted by those who are not themselves mentally defective, so that one authority estimates that even the complete elimination of all the feeble-minded in the United States at one time would not eliminate feeble-mindedness since there would be more than 100,000 cases in the next generation resulting from normals who carry "littered" feeble-mindedness.

In the United States twenty-seven states now have laws for sterilization of insane, feeble-minded, and epileptic and in some states criminality is also included. There seems to be a great deal of difference of opinion as to the inclusion of criminality and there is also much disagreement as to what types of feeble-mindedness and mental deficiency ought to be considered.

A grant of $5,000 for last month's accounts was passed by the City Council to the Jubilee Hospital yesterday evening. Another of $75 was passed for the Seamen's Institute.

JUDGING CATTLE AT VICTORIA EXHIBITION

This very fine picture of one of the main events at the Victoria Fair was taken yesterday afternoon when the judges were busy awarding the ribbons in the cattle classes. The judging is being conducted in the Horse Show Building.

CLAUDE RAINS IS FEATURED

Capitol Theatre Stars Him and Two New Players in "Crime Without Passion"

A vividly exciting, handsomely mounted and presented film, Paramount's "Crime Without Passion," now at the Capitol Theatre, presents some of the most commendable acting, astute direction, and praiseworthy camera work and special effects that any picture has offered in years. Written, produced and directed by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur at the Eastern Service Studios in Astoria, Long Island, the film features Claude Rains, and two girls new to pictures whose performance should soon earn them stardom. They are Margo, the Spanish-American dancer, and Whitney Bourne, social register and stage actress. Rains acts the role of the principal character, Lee Gentry, who terms himself "the soulless champion of the damned" with consummate artistry.

Through his romantic entanglements he himself is involved in a crime. Then, pursued through the streets of New York by the scruples of conscience, which we actually see on the screen, he proceeds to create a fool-proof alibi for himself.

Harold Lloyd To Play Here

Harold Lloyd's severest and best picture critic is his own wife, Mildred Davis Lloyd.

Before anyone else ever gets a look at his picture on its first assembly, the comedian always calls in Mrs. Lloyd for an opinion.

The custom was not changed in the instance of "The Cat's Paw," produced by the comedian from Clarence Budington Kelland's novel of the same name, opening at the Dominion Theatre Friday next. Mrs. Lloyd's verdict was eagerly awaited by the entire company, inasmuch as the picture is a radical departure from anything the comedian has filmed.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

A police persecution complex is said to be the motive, scientifically analyzed, of the murderer "X," dire pivotal figure in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer thriller, "Mystery of Mr. X," now at the Playhouse Theatre. It is reported that this and other modern aspects of the sensational new film have never before been incorporated into a mystery picture. Directed by Edgar Selwyn, the picture boasts Robert Montgomery as its star, ably supported by Elizabeth Allan and Lewis Stone.

Before anyone else ever gets a look at his picture on its first assembly, the comedian always calls in Mrs. Lloyd for an opinion.

The custom was not changed in the instance of "The Cat's Paw," produced by the comedian from Clarence Budington Kelland's novel of the same name, opening at the Dominion Theatre Friday next. Mrs. Lloyd's verdict was eagerly awaited by the entire company, inasmuch as the picture is a radical departure from anything the comedian has filmed.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

A police persecution complex is said to be the motive, scientifically analyzed, of the murderer "X," dire pivotal figure in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer thriller, "Mystery of Mr. X," now at the Playhouse Theatre. It is reported that this and other modern aspects of the sensational new film have never before been incorporated into a mystery picture. Directed by Edgar Selwyn, the picture boasts Robert Montgomery as its star, ably supported by Elizabeth Allan and Lewis Stone.

Drowning Tragedy Averted Near Courtenay by Prompt Action of Youngsters

The heroic action of three Island youngsters who saved a companion from drowning in the Tsalum River, near Courtenay, recently, will be brought to the attention of the Provincial Secretary and probably the Royal Humane Society, it was learned from a provincial police report this morning.

The report, filed by Constable D. Morris of the Courtenay detachment, told of the lifesaving and recommended recognition. Inspector Robert Owens, O.C. "A" division, has forwarded the report to the commission of B.C. Police recommending it be brought to the attention of the government and society authorities.

While swimming in the river Daniel McKenzie, fourteen, attempted to cross it in a pool about fifty yards wide and from five to seven feet deep. As he reached the middle he ran into difficulties and sank. Gerard McAulay, fifteen, a playmate, saw his plight and swam after him, but was unable to cope with the struggles of the young man and went under also. He managed to extricate himself and call for help.

Edna, a schoolmate and Malcolm McAulay, fourteen and thirteen, respectively, rushed out and managed to save the McKenzie boy while Gerard swam ashore. According to Constable Morris the action undoubtedly averted a drowning tragedy.

Edna, a schoolmate and Malcolm McAulay, fourteen and thirteen, respectively, rushed out and managed to save the McKenzie boy while Gerard swam ashore. According to Constable Morris the action undoubtedly averted a drowning tragedy.

The report, filed by Constable D. Morris of the Courtenay detachment, told of the lifesaving and recommended recognition. Inspector Robert Owens, O.C. "A" division, has forwarded the report to the commission of B.C. Police recommending it be brought to the attention of the government and society authorities.

While swimming in the river Daniel McKenzie, fourteen, attempted to cross it in a pool about fifty yards wide and from five to seven feet deep. As he reached the middle he ran into difficulties and sank. Gerard McAulay, fifteen, a playmate, saw his plight and swam after him, but was unable to cope with the struggles of the young man and went under also. He managed to extricate himself and call for help.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THE "HUNGRY" team of individual usually is the best bet in sports. The Detroit Tigers, leaders in the American Baseball League, are the latest example. Enthusiasm poured out of a club coming into the arena of success for the first time. It is difficult to engender as much spirit in an outfit as that which has been like the New York Yankees, the highest paid aggregation in baseball. Colonel Jake Ruppert's boys have tried hard this season, but the veterans among them find themselves unable to get in there and fight as they have in the past. There are no new thrills in the Dodge for most of the Yanks, which is the principal reason why they will likely miss out on the world series next month.

Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Combs are rich men. Dickey is well fixed financially, and Crawford, Chapman, Gomez, Ruffing, Allen, Byrd, Jorgens and MacFayden are fully equipped with worldly goods. All of them have been in the world series. Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Combs in four and Dickey in two.

Detroit will be a continental favorite over the New York Giants in the world series, provided the Giants repeat, which they should. There is no longer much question about the American League standard bearer. How are the Yankees going to repel a club that repeatedly puts the opposition anything from three to nine runs and comes on to top the plums.

New York probably will be a slight choice in the wagers. Everything else being equal, most gamblers prefer to stick to a champion until he is beaten. It is hard to plunk down your money against a consistent outfit that plays the common sense baseball of Bill Terry's men behind pitchers like Hubbell and Schumacher.

Some also will figure that the Giants will have an advantage in having been through one of the trying fall tests, but it is doubtful that this gives them an edge. The fact that only three of the Tigers, Cochrane, Goslin and Marberry, four now, with Crowder, have tasted the glory and gold that come with first place in the majors has had as much as anything else to do with the success of the Detroit entry.

The average age of the Tigers, including the thirty-five-year-old Goslin, the thirty-four-year-old Crowder and the thirty-one-year-old Cochrane and Gehrig, is less than twenty-eight.

One can imagine how the twenty-two-year-old Greenberg and other Tiger cubs listen when Goslin and Marberry relate how their salaries jumped when the Washington club with which they played first sealed the heights to make Bucky Harris a boy wonder.

The dash and daring and ambition of youth has played a big part in carrying the Detroit outfit along, and it is not likely to be content with a one-year run.

With the best infield in baseball, and three brilliant young pitchers around whom to build a staff, the Tigers next season should meet Connie Mack's demand of an outstanding club, and may to a great deal further. The venerable leader of the Philadelphia Athletics says that a club unable to duplicate a first-winning performance has no right to permanent renown.

Mickey Cochrane's team is built for the future. Charley Gehrig, the finest player in the game to-day, is at his peak at thirty-one. Bill Rogers is thirty, the vastly improved Marvin Owen only twenty-eight, and Greenberg, as related in the foregoing, only twenty-three.

Schoolboy Rowe appears ready to take his place among illustrious pitchers, and Tommy Bridges, one of the nearest curve-ball hurlers in the profession, is only twenty-seven. Edouard Auker, twenty-four years of age, six feet two inches in height, and scaling 197 pounds, has struck a shutout stride in recent weeks. Detroit has excellent minor league connections and an alert fleet of scouts. Everybody connected with Frank J. Navin understands the business. Proof of this is that practically every member of this year's rampant array, with the exception of Cochrane, Goslin, Rorick, Crowder and Fiesler was developed within the organization.

A CORRECTION

To the Sports Editor:—In last Friday's issue of the Times it was stated that Stanley James won the lightweight boxing championship of the Second Division in France. I wish to correct that statement.

I served as a gunner in the R.F.A. in the Imperial Army. I left Victoria early in 1918, and went back to Wales and joined the army there. I served overseas with the 1st Battery 49th Brigade, 8th Division, 5th Army, and the belt I won was the 8th Division Lightweight Challenge Belt, which I won three times in succession, winning it outright. I also won the lightweight championship of the army at Lille, February, 1919.

Derby Victor Covers Mile and Three-quarters in 3.01 3-5 at Doncaster

TIBERIOUS IN SECOND PLACE

Doncaster, Eng., Sept. 12.—The Epsom Derby winner and the hot favorite came through in fine style to-day when Windsor Lad captured the St. Leger, last of the season's five classics for three-year-olds.

The colt, for which M. H. Benson paid the Maharajah of Rajpipla $250,000 following his victory in the Epsom blue riband, finished ahead of Sir Abe Bailey's Tiberius, with J. A. Dewar's Lo Zingaro third in the field of ten. St. Hubert, among the eleven named overnight, did not start.

Windsor Lad, a fine-looking colt by Blandford out of Resplendent, drummed his name in the record-books alongside those of twenty-six other colts that have won both the Derby and the St. Leger in the 160 years or more that both the classics have been run. The Two Thousand Guineas, the only other open classic, was captured by Colombo this year, but Colombo, soundly beaten by Windsor Lad in the Derby, was not a starter to-day.

Windsor Lad started favorite at record odds for the Doncaster classic of 4 to 9. Tiberius was 20 to 1, Lo Zingaro 100 to 9. In special places betting Windsor Lad was 2 to 9, Tiberius 10 to 3, Lo Zingaro 2 to 1. Windsor Lad finished the mile and three-quarters journey two lengths in front of Tiberius who for a half mile when Tiberius went in first, with Windsor Lad right on his heels.

Tiberius still was in front entering the straight, but Windsor Lad was taking on his shoulder with plenty in reserve. Three turlongs from the finish the favorite bounded forward and took the lead without difficulty.

Tiberius gamely hung on for a few strides with the Derby winner, but Windsor Lad won easily going away. Patriot King raced in a fast fourth and Umidwar, second choice, was fifth. Pride of the Chilterns was last.

Windsor Lad equalled the track record of 3.01 3-5 established by Coronach in 1926.

The race was worth approximately $40,000. It was the hundredth and fifty-fifth running of the classic.

MAROONS SEEK CRUTCHFIELD

N.H.L. Club Hopes to Sign Star of McGill University Hockey Team

Montreal, Sept. 12.—Nelson Crutchfield, star of the McGill University senior team for four seasons, is expected to sign a Montreal Maroons contract this week and perform in the National Hockey League during the coming year, was announced at club headquarters yesterday evening.

Crutchfield would thus join Sammy McManus and Aubrey Webster of the team which defeated McGill last year in Allan Cup playdowns, the cup holding Montreal Hawks at Maroons' training camp at Winnipeg. Another noted amateur of last year will be "To" Blake of Hamilton Tigers.

Maroons, it was announced, are negotiating with Hugh Farquharson, Crutchfield's teammate and dealer, are pending for Hee Kiere, Toronto Leafs, and Allan Shields, Ottawa Senators.

The club has until Saturday to exercise an option on goaltender Lorne Chabot, who was obtained from Canadiens a month ago.

Exhibition games with New York Rangers will be held at Winnipeg, and the squad will report there October 22.

New York, Sept. 12.—Bobby Pacho, California welterweight, continued his successful eastern campaign by stopping Eddie Ran, Poland, in the third round of a ten-round bout at the Coney Island Velodrome yesterday evening.

Teddy Yarosz New World Ring Champ

Pittsburgh Battler Decisions Veteran Vince Dundee to Lift Middleweight Crown; Record Crowd of 28,000 Witnesses Scrap

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 12.—Nearby Monaca all but closed up steel mills and everything else to-day to pay tribute to youthful Teddy Yarosz, who, between violin lessons, has managed to clinch in enough boxing experience to become the new holder of the disputed middleweight championship of the world.

More than 28,000 persons, the largest crowd in Pittsburgh's history, saw Teddy take the title yesterday evening by a 2 to 1 decision from aging Vince Dundee, Newark, N.J.

Yarosz, as was Dundee, is recognized as middleweight champion of the world only in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York, the International Boxing Federation's recognition of Marcel Titi, France, as middleweight champion, being accepted elsewhere.

Dundee weighed in at 156 1/2. Yarosz scaled 157 1/2.

The new champion carried the fight to Dundee throughout with a persistent left jab assault that had Dundee on the defensive a large part of the time.

Yarosz capped his victory with a strong two-fisted attack in the final round, driving Dundee around the ring with wicked body-punches and straight jabs that sent Dundee into clinches.

Yarosz was strong at the finish, but Dundee was tiring, and blood streamed from a bruised left eye.

Canada's Gridders Ready For Opening

Teams Across Dominion Engage in Stiff Workouts for Another Campaign After National Honors; Prairie Clubs Start Saturday

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—Western Canada gridiron came into the beam of the sporting spotlight to-day as football teams in seven centres limbered up before plunging into strenuous schedules in quest of Canadian senior rugby supremacy.

At Moose Jaw and Winnipeg the 1934 season opens Saturday, on the Pacific Coast the starting date is September 19, and in Alberta the seniors get away September 25, when Moose Domers of Calgary tangle with Edmonton Varsity and Lethbridge meets Calgary Altamans.

King pins of western rugby last year the Winnipeggers have seven players on the lineup, and despite the loss of Carl Croning as coach will field a strong team. Added to veterans such as Russ Rebhott, Greg Kabat and Lou Adelman are Bob Schiller, quarterback from Northwestern University and John (Jughead) Anderson, halfback from Oklahoma and star of the Big Ten Conference two years ago. Other new arrivals are Leon Patrick, from Montreal, Cliff Roseborough, from Regina Roughriders and Danny Konchak and Jeff Nicklin, graduates from Deer Lodge juniors.

MANITOBA VARSITY IN Manitoba Varsity has also entered a senior team and will play two games against the Pega in October. Minnesota Allstars meet the Winnipeg team in the season opener Saturday night.

In British Columbia, the Big Four Senior Rugby League will operate this fall with Merlamas, coast champions for the last two seasons, Vancouver Athletic Club, British Columbia University and North Shore. The North Shore club has taken over the New Westminster franchise. Merlamas open the season against Merlamas on the season against Hilltops.

In Saskatchewan Regina Rough Riders are rated stronger than ever with five U.S. imports and five Canadians on the roster. They have added Ralph Pearce, South Dakota University, Paul Kirk from Minnesota University, Steve Adkins, "Oke" Olson and Bob Walker, all from North Dakota University.

Saskatoon will support two teams—Hilltops and University of Saskatchewan. Varsity has practically a new team, having lost almost all players through graduation. Moose Jaw Millers, "homebrew" team that forced Riders into a special R.F.U. playoff last year, will field the same team as last year when they open the season at Saskatoon against Hilltops.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—With talk warning to the king of autumn's sport parade, football, coaches of eastern Canada's senior, intermediate and junior football squads issued the call and before the end of the week pre-season practices will be well under way.

Argos, with sixteen of last year's championship squad on hand, are out having light calisthenics, kicking drill and a short jaunt nightly, but Coach Lou Haymah asserts more rigid tactics last week when they open the season at Balmy Beach by signing a contract with the Dominion championship.

Montreal Football Club, has the University of Toronto, in the intercollegiate group, in the rebuilding of the team. Only three of last season's squad turned out for practice.

MONTEALERS OUT

Ottawa, Hamilton and Montreal were also scenes of activity. While Coach Clarry Foran looked on, the Montreal Football Club went through the first formation drill yesterday evening. The club, appearing in mid-week, appeared for the first time, and in good condition from lacrosse this summer, was tossed into the thick of the drill.

Coach Black Shaughnessy hoped the problem of finding another punter to replace Herb Westman on the roster of McGill University may be solved with the return to college of Bab Craig, one of last year's half-backs.

Outside aid was sought by Coach Wally Masters to bring the lighthearted of Ottawa Rough Riders up to scratch. Lon Jourdet, line-coach of the University of Pennsylvania, is expected to arrive for a two weeks' training engagement.

Johnny Ferraro, newly-appointed coach of Hamilton Tigers has started his team into strenuous workouts. Jack Craig, son of "Husky" Craig, one of the best line-plungers ever on a Bengal squad, is seeking a backfield berth.

Arcade Bowlers Meet To-night

A meeting of the senior and commercial tenpin bowling leagues will be held at the Arcade Alleys to-night at 8 o'clock. Election of officers for the year will take place and plans made for the opening of the season.

The game will be played to-night weather permitting. The cloisters hold a 2 to 1 game lead in the series.

ROYAL CITY SQUAD WINS

Salmonbellies Defeat St. Helens 20 to 12 in Box Lacrosse Play-off

New Westminster, Sept. 12.—Led by a trio of high-powered home players who scored fifteen goals between them, New Westminster Salmonbellies smashed out a 20 to 12 victory over St. Helens, Vancouver, yesterday evening to take a 2 to 1 lead in games in the three-out-of-five series for the British Columbia box lacrosse title.

Les and Alfie Davy, crack Salmonbellies' combination, accounted for ten goals. Les scoring six of them. Ray Baker, partner with Les, chalked up five counters.

The victory regained for New Westminster their one-game advantage in the series—an advantage wiped out when St. Helens' protest of the second game, won by Salmonbellies, was upheld by the British Columbia Amateur Box Lacrosse Association and the game ordered replayed.

Date of the next game has not yet been set.

Giants Gain and Detroit Defeated

Yanks Still Have Some Fight Left

St. Louis, Sept. 12.—George Herman Ruth refused flatly yesterday to "give" the American League pennant to Detroit Tigers.

"There's still some life left in us," said the Babe, as he recalled his "we," meaning the Boston Red Sox, beat out the Tigers in 1915 after Frank Navin, the Detroit owner, had enlarged his stands for a world series.

Boston in that year won three out of four games of a crucial series from Detroit which started September 16.

McLARNIN IS WORKING HARD

Keeping in Shape for Bout With Ross Saturday; Champion to Resume To-day

New York, Sept. 12.—Barney Ross continued his vacation from ring work yesterday in observance of the Jewish holidays, but Jimmy McLarnin, no religious barriers in his way, went through a full training session in preparation for the return fifteen-round welterweight championship bout in Madison Square Garden bowl.

The one-time baby-faced Irishman from Vancouver was up early for a training jaunt around the reservoir in Central Park, then worked four rounds in the afternoon, at an up-town gymnasium, with his negro sparring partner, Calvin Reed, and finishing off with work on the punching bag.

Little money was being wagered. Some commission houses—said the Chicago champion was receding in public favor.

He was to resume training to-day, with another hard boxing session scheduled for to-morrow. Friday he will taper off. The two must weigh in again Saturday morning and are expected to be not far from their weights of last Thursday, 140 for Ross and 145½ for McLarnin.

RAIN CANCELS CRICKET PLAY

Touring Eastern Team Unable to Complete Match With Vancouver Eleven

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—Torrential rain yesterday caused abandonment of the touring eastern Canadian cricket team's third match of their British Columbia trip.

The visitors were to have played an all-star Mainland League eleven, but after several attempts to get started had been thwarted by rain the match was called off.

The easterners left yesterday evening for Victoria, where they were to play to-day.

On their return here Saturday, en route home, the tourists may play another match with the B.C. Colts, the team with which they played a draw Monday, but this will not be settled definitely until to-night.

Western-bred Mare Shows Keen Speed

Verna Loan Maintains Winning Record by Defeating Open Field of Sprinters; Gaffstone Surprises at Long Price; Nobody Picks Daily Double

The champion of the season for consistency, W. P. James's mare, Verna Loan, rose to new heights at the Willows racetrack when she cantered to a fair field of sprinters in the fourth event to win pulling up by seven lengths.

Verna Loan is a western Canadian-bred horse, by Liberty Loan out of Sahara. Among those she defeated were the fast-traveling Sutor and Weatherly's Bernice Van.

Verna Loan has never been worse than second during the whole of the racing season, but has usually run with the other western-breds. Yesterday was the first time she tackled such a tough field and went to the post at eleven to two. Jockey Tim Sena took her to the front after going half the journey and pulled out further in the front all the way to the wire.

She is trained by H. V. Lee, who has proved himself one of the smartest and best trainers on the tracks by keeping her at winning form.

The heavy track yesterday fooled the punters several times, the biggest surprise being Gaffstone, which won the third and paid off $76.65 for $2. He defeated the two favorites Genevieve M. and Tommy Doyle with comparative ease in the soft going.

Gaffstone was the second half of the daily double from Beaver Boy, but because there were no double tickets sold on him, the pay-off went to all those holding pasteboards on Beaver Boy at $4.

Making his first appearance on B.C. tracks after coming over from Longacres, Harry Rowe's Louie Dear won the feature fifth race, but just lacked to hold off the fast-closing Watch Girl. The winner was an odd-on favorite, but Watch Girl was an outsider and the one-two, or quinnella, in this, returned $20.95.

Herb Fullerton's colors came home on top in the opening race for opening race for western-breds at three-quarters of a mile when Jungle Shaw galloped in by five lengths over Gypsophila. Prince Goldstream closed like a whirlwind to take the show position.

Beaver Boy was a handy winner in the second. Taking the lead after the first half he opened a safe lead and resisted all challenges. Swift Cop was second and Deep Beach third.

The Pedro Woolley mare Jessop sprang a mild surprise when she registered an easy victory in the sixth. Going the mile and one furlong she took the lead at the start and although inclined to bear out on the turns was much the best and scored by a wide margin.

The day wound up with another long shot, Red Lady winning by a length over Bill Bane in a distance event. The winner returned $33.20 straight and, coupled with Bill Bane in the one-two, $48. Ella Madeline was third.

Tim Sena had a big day in the saddle, scoring in three out of the first four races. Robertson rode a first, second and third. Pendergrass, Russell and Solomon were the other winning riders.

Former End Three-game Losing Streak in National League Baseball With Win Over Pittsburgh; Detroit Drops Eleven-inning Struggle to Boston

The New York Yankees, striving to overhaul Detroit's Tigers in the late stages of the American League pennant race, have enjoyed more than usual success on their current western tour, but the hardest part is still ahead.

By dividing a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns yesterday while Detroit took a 4 to 3 setback from the Boston Red Sox in an eleven-inning struggle, the Yankees cut another half-game off the tiger's lead, reducing it to four games. When they beat St. Louis 7 to 4 in the opener, then lost 1 to 2, it gave the Yanks a record of five victories and two defeats so far, a sharp contrast to their record of fourteen wins and fifteen losses in previous games in the west.

The catch in the whole business lies in the fact that after a day off to-day, they invade Detroit and Cleveland, where they have won only four games and lost ten this season.

GIANTS GAIN

The order was reversed in the National League where the league-leading New York Giants ended their string of three losing and Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak with a 3 to 1 triumph, while the St. Louis Cardinals split a twin bill with the Phillies. This increased New York's lead to four and a half games.

Manager Bill Terry's eighth-inning single with two aboard broke up a going duel between Roy Parmelee and Bill Swift to give the Giants their triumph.

The third-place Chicago Cubs beat the Boston Braves 2 to 0 in an elbowing argument between Bill Lee and Ed Brandt, while Emil Leonard's four-hit hurling carried the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5 to 2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. In two other games the Philadelphia Athletics defeated Cleveland 6 to 4, while the Chicago White Sox scored a 3 to 2 victory over Washington.

Freedom for Business Urged

E. W. Beatty Says Limits Should Be Set for State Regulation

By Sam G. Ross, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—Government efforts to regulate industry beyond flexible operation yesterday evening brought criticism from E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in an address at a banquet tendered delegates to the ninth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Honest and competent business had nothing to fear from intelligent supervision and regulation by the state, but efforts of the state threatened to prevent normal operation of business, he declared. "I am not a warm advocate of governmental action in the business world," he declared. "Governments interfere with liberty of business."

Mr. Beatty declared the commercial outlook to-day was far brighter than for many a year. Yet Canada was suffering from a surplus of natural wealth for its present population. One cause was increased population. He scored public utilities which were still being operated on private finance, with the bondholders deriving profit through protection by taxpayers.

PROFIT INCENTIVE

Profit was still the incentive to business, but the success in reaping profit would be the direct result of the intelligence with which profit was sought.

"If the people of this country wish to concentrate all the handling of any commodity in the control of government officials, that is their right," said Mr. Beatty. But first it should be determined if the project were economically sound. If it were the wish of the citizens, if it would conserve property through efficient and non-political administration and if it were honest.

"The public-owned public utilities are not, in any economic sense, owned by the state at all," he declared. "They are owned by private investors who are, by the state, and at the expense of the public, protected against the ordinary risks of investment. It is useless to say that public-owned public utility which is mortgaged to private capitalists far beyond its earning power."

It would be as sensible to say that a man with a $5,000 house with a $10,000 mortgage on it owns the house in any real sense. If the state were to come to the assistance of such a man we should know at once that it was using its power, not to aid him, but to aid the mortgagee.

MORE POPULATION

Mr. Beatty said he was a consistent advocate of measures to increase the population of the Dominion.

"Unhappily, the memory of the late war, the fear of another struggle, and the burden of debts all act as forces to stymie nationalistic economic measures far beyond the real necessities of the case," said Mr. Beatty. But he noted a tendency to turn away from war and, even in a nationalistic world, some goods produced were in greater demand than others.

He believed these would be counter-acting factors towards stability.

"The man who tries to drive down the price which a farmer gets for his products, by any form of 'trickery,' the man who willingly exploits labor and underpays his employees; the man who tries to sell his goods for an exorbitant price—none of these can avoid actually damaging his own long-term profits. Even if his conscience fails to be a safe guide, his books will show him his error."

SPOILSMEN OVER-RIDDEN

Cabinet Backed by President in Picking Eminent Men for Public Service

Washington, Sept. 12.—Appointment of Dr. Ernest Gruening as director of the new Division of Territories and Island Possessions, to the accompaniment of triumphant shouts from all Liberals, has been an outstanding instance of President Roosevelt's enlightened policy of choosing eminently qualified men for public office and sitting on politicians and patronage mongers.

Not only was it symptomatic of the administration's benevolent Caribbean policy, it was a severe blow to a patronage lobby which well knows how few of the nice berths in Gruening's far-flung field will now be filled on a partisan political basis.

ANOTHER HUMP FOR FARLEY

Selection of Dr. John Wellington Finch as chief of the Bureau of Mines was not exactly a clean-cut 100 per cent victory for the merit system purists, but it was another defeat for Postmaster Farley, party patronage dispenser, and a victory for government scientists who fear political encroachments into their territory.

Secretary Ickes recommended Finch long ago as an outstanding geologist and a man of high character. Finch was not a well-known Democrat, proposed another fellow who had more political backing, and persecuted Ickes, who are by the state, and at the expense of the public, protected against the ordinary risks of investment. It is useless to say that public-owned public utility which is mortgaged to private capitalists far beyond its earning power."

As soon as the President got back, John Blair's old map of Beacon Hill Park, made about 1869, will be given to the Provincial Archives as the result of a motion passed by the City Council yesterday evening.

Want Money for Guarding Railway

Canadian Press from Hays

Harbin, Sept. 12.—Mandchukuoan military authorities to-day threatened to withdraw protection from a section of the Soviet-owned Chinese Eastern Railway if the railway authorities did not pay more money for the upkeep of the troops.

The vice-president of the railway board replied that money paid for 1932 and 1933 alone totaled 4,005,260 gold rubles ($3,400,000). The railway was not obliged to maintain government troops, he said, but had never refused to help the authorities in the matter of guarding property and employees.

What Kind of Wife Do You Want?

Dorothy Dix

Describes Young Man's Ideal Girl

A YOUNG man was describing his ideal wife the other day: "If I could have just the sort of wife I'd like to have," he said, "she would be easy on the eyes, of course, for I'd hate to have to spend the balance of my life looking at a chrono, but my great beauty for me. She would be out of my class. I wouldn't be comfortable with her. I would feel that I was committing a sacrilege if I let Dolores Del Rio try out her complexion over the cooking stove cooking my dinner, or set a living picture to darning my socks. I would just want a mediumly pulchritudinous wife, one who looks not too good for human nature's daily food, you know.

for at home, for I could no more stand a sloppy wife than I could a sloppy secretary.

"But I wouldn't want her to be one of those women whose brains are cut on the bias and filled in the middle; who never have a thought that rises above the fashions, and whose husbands are sold into slavery at the altar to high-priced dress and hat shops.

"I would like to have a wife who was a good housekeeper. I have a palate and a stomach that I highly respect, and I would never be happy with a woman who fed me out of paper bags, or in a house where nothing was ever done on time and where you had to sweep the clutter out of a chair before you sat down on it, and I'd loathe a woman who was always complaining about the slavery of domesticity, and being tied down to a house.

"I want my wife to feel that making a home is the greatest career that any woman can follow, and that cooking is one of the fine arts, and that it takes just as much financial sagacity to manage a household budget as it does a bank. I want a wife who can run the household machinery without my hearing it creak, and who will meet me when I come home of an evening with a glad, sweet smile and the aroma of a savory dinner about her.

"I would like to have a wife who is intelligent and well educated. I would like her to read and be able to talk interestingly about things and about what was going on in the world, for I can imagine nothing more dreary and awful than having to spend your evenings with a Dumb Dora whose conversational repertoire consisted of the price of green grocers, the misadventures of the children, and what the people next door are doing, and who wouldn't even know what you were saying when you tried to talk to her about something worth while.

"But, most of all, I would like for my wife to have a head chuck full of good, hard horse sense, for that would enable her to meet every situation in life as it developed, and it would make her rational and sane and easy to live with.

"I should like to have a wife to whom I could tell the truth. I should like to have one with whom I could deal frankly. One around whose prejudices I would not have to guess, and one whom I would not have to handle diplomatically and with finesse. One to whom I would not have to lie.

"I would like a wife to whom I could say: 'Jim Jones is in town and I'm going to stay downtown to-night and play poker with him and the boys.' Instead of having to tell her a whopper about some mythical business deal. I would like to be able to tell my wife that I met an old woman friend and took her to lunch instead of having to sneeze off with my grandmother to some hole in the wall and pray God it would never get back to my wife. I would like to be able to tell my wife of her little mannerisms that annoy me and have her take it, and like it.

"I would like for my wife to have a sense of humor. I'd like her to be jolly and have a laugh that was hung on a hair-trigger. I'd like her to be able to see the funny side of things and make a joke out of the little misadventures of life instead of going into hysterics about them.

"Especially would I like a wife who would laugh off my faults and foibles and blunders and sidestepings without making tragedies out of them.

"I would like for my wife to make a joke out of the time I had too many cocktails at a party, or the occasion when I let a pretty little gold-digger chisel me out of some money, or any other time when I did something foolish. I'd like a wife who would kid me into a good humor when I was cross instead of getting angry herself and forcing a fight.

"I would like a wife who would be easy-going and amiable and pleasant to live with. One who would be a play fellow as well as a helpmeet. One who would be a good sport who would stand by me through thick and thin. One who would be just as cheerful and happy in a two-by-four flat as a mansion. One who would take me as I am without trying to reform me or make me over. One who would stay a sweetheart and keep me yanked so I would never have to look around for another woman to understand or amuse me.

"That is the kind of wife I would like to have."

"Well, you don't ask much," commented a girl cynically.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CLOTHES TREE

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his easy chair reading the evening paper one night when Nurse Jane Fussy Wussy came down stairs. She had been up seeing that the smallest of the rabbit boys and girls were safely in bed after their day of going to school and having fun afterward. The musical, Jack-hammer and down on the near Uncle Wiggily and said:

"What's the matter, Nurse Jane?" asked Mr. Longears, kindly. "Are you tired?"

answered Miss Fussy Wussy, the rabbit gentleman, laying aside his paper and taking off his glasses. He looked at Nurse Jane.

"Oh, it's Buster, Custer and Duster," she said. "They've been up to the other children do very nicely, but Buster, Custer and Duster never stop doing it."

"What are they having a pillow fight in their room or won't they shut their eyes and go to sleep?" "Tell me," said Nurse Jane. "The three bunny boys are very good about not pillow fighting and they are already asleep soundly."

CARELESS ABOUT THEIR CLOTHES

"Then what's wrong with them?" asked their rabbit father.

"They won't put their clothes up nicely and neatly when they undress for bed," he answered. "They throw them all over the floor. Oh, it is so sad and untidy!"

"Have you ever told them they must hang their clothes up neatly, Nurse Jane?" Mr. Longears wanted to know.

"Oh, yes, often. So has your wife. And I believe you had three chairs put in the room where Buster, Custer and Duster sleep together, a chair for each of them on which they were told to fold their clothes when they took them off, didn't you?"

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily. "I told those boys to put their clothes on chairs and not scatter them around the room. Don't they do it?"

Nurse Jane shook her head sadly. "You should see their room," she said. "I didn't try to go in to-night. I was afraid."

"No wonder," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go up and take a look. I found three bunny boys sound asleep, but down the room was a sad sight! There were three chairs in one corner and one on the mantle. Scattered about were stockings, socks, shirts and caps. Oh, such disorder. None of the garments were on the chairs where they should have been neatly folded."

"I must teach my boys a lesson," thought the rabbit gentleman. He told this to Nurse Jane when he went down stairs.

"What are you going to do?" asked the muskrat lady.

"I am going to get a clothes tree," said Uncle Wiggily.

NOT THAT KIND OF TREE

"Oh, don't get a tree to grow any more clothes for them," she squeaked. "They have enough clothes as now. They'll only throw more on the floor if you get them a clothes tree to grow more knickers and socks!"

Uncle Wiggily laughed. "That isn't the sort of clothes tree I am going to get,"

Catholic Women's League.—Miss Helen Rodgrave, president, presided at the September meeting of the Catholic Women's League, held in the library of the Bishop's House, last evening, when the attendance was very satisfactory and a programme of activities was drawn up. Rev. Father Albury addressed the meeting, and Miss George spoke very interestingly on "Catholic Medical Missions." Miss Kathleen Morris, secretary, and Miss Eulalia O'Neill, treasurer, reported for their offices. It was decided to hold the annual book show for the library of St. Louis College on September 23rd, at the home of Miss Eleanor MacDonald, 1014 Queen's Avenue, when Miss Nora O'Connell will convene the refreshments. The college library has always held a special claim upon the Junior League and the returns from the shows have been most gratifying. Friends of the college are invited to attend from 3 to 6 o'clock. On October 14 a membership tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Bernard Cleary, 26 Linden Avenue. Two new members were welcomed to last night's meeting. It has been decided to hold the meetings in future on the first Monday of each month. A card party is planned for November, the date to be determined later.
